

GIRL VICTIM OF TORTURE

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Cristina Peschard, pretty 16-year-old welder's daughter, said from a hospital bed today that she could never forgive her father for burning her face with a blow torch, then withholding medical attention for 10 days—because she bought shoes with a bonus earned at a laundry.

A measure of her bitterness was provoked by the report of surgeons who examined the broad, raw wounds on her cheek, neck and shoulder last night when police brought her to the county hospital from the home where she had been held a virtual prisoner. Their report was that the deep burns probably would leave livid scars.

Christina's story was one of a life of drudgery in a family of eight, of a "tyrannical" father who took every cent of the $6 weekly wage she earned over the ironing board and around the steaming kettles of a laundry—a life with but little happiness.

Physicians ordered a mental examination of the father, Raul Peschard, 34, who was held without bond on aggravated assault charges. He operates a small welding shop near his home.

Termed Accident
Peschard described the burning of his daughter as an accident.

He was working there and she came up and started telling me about her new shoes," Peschard said. "The torch was on the table by us. I do not know how it happened but I turned around when I heard her scream. Her hair was on fire.

"I grabbed her and put out the fire by smothering her head in my leather jacket.

"Christina was a good girl. I would not hurt her."

He said he had not called a doctor because he had no money, and "I cannot afford it."

Cristina, however, told a different story. Shortly after noon Feb. 11 she was on the way home, her week's work ended, delighted over an unexpected $6 bonus. She saw a pair of shoes and could not resist the temptation to buy them.

Later in the day when she appeared at Peschard's shop to turn over her regular wages, she told him they were the gift of a girl friend.

At first he was skeptical, she said, then disbelieving. An argument ensued and the father, who had been bending over a welding job turned angrily and thrust the blue-blaze of his torch into her face, she said. Shrieking with pain, she ran home, her father following.

Peschard ordered her and her mother not to leave the house, she said, and threatened them with death if they disobeyed. Yesterday, the mother slipped out and called a doctor because the wound was increasingly painful.

The welder was at home when the doctor arrived and grudgingly admitted him. After examining Cristina's burns and hearing her mother's story, he immediately called police. They sent the girl to the hospital and arrested Peschard.

Police said they found two pistols in the Peschard home.

Law Maker Blasts German Bund
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Rep. John A. Martin, D., Colo., attacked the German-American Nazi Bund in the House today and, to applause from both Democrats and Republicans, asserted that every sympathizer at the Bund's New York rally two nights ago was "a traitor to the American government."

He said the Nazi sympathizers wore the "uniform of every thing that George Washington stood for and that America typifies."

Walker Loses Job As Supervisors' Counsel

Regardless of the outcome of mandamus proceedings through which he seeks to collect his salary for services already performed, "County Counsel" James E. Walker is no longer employed by the supervisors, he made known today.

His services as special advisor to the board, which drew a storm of criticism from taxpayers circles, terminated at noon yesterday, and Deputy District Attorney Lloyd Verry was with the board as advisor yesterday afternoon.

Heed Protests
Although the county supervisors could amend the personnel ordinance to permit a valid appointment of Walker as their counsel, according to an interpretation of Superior Judge G. K. Scovel's comment in hearing Walker's petition demanding his January salary, there is no intention of taking such a step, Walker said. The supervisors apparently bowed to the demands of organizations like the Santa Ana chamber of commerce and others, which have protested the expense of employing special counsel.

Whether Walker will be paid for the seven weeks he has served the board remains to be determined by Judge Scovel's ruling on Walker's mandamus petition, directed against County Auditor W. T. Lambert.

Holds Up Salary
Lambert brought about the test of Walker's legal status by holding up his January salary, $309.12. Represented by District Attorney George Holden, Lambert demurred to Walker's petition and was sustained by the court. Walker then filed an amended petition, to which a demurrer of Lambert again was sustained, last Monday. Walker

Truck Driver Hero In Espionage Case
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—(UP)—A Hollywood cleaning truck driver, who might have kept his mouth shut and kept a $50 bill, emerged today as the amateur detective hero of the alleged Russian spy plot for which two men and a blonde woman are on trial in federal court.

It was the big bill plus cryptic notes and diagrams carefully left in the pocket of a suit sent to be cleaned that first directed suspicion at Mikhail Gorin, his wife Natasha, and Hafis Salich. The three are accused of stealing the navy's secrets on Japanese armaments for the use of Soviet Russia.

Notified Police
The $30-a-week truck driver whose honesty and alertness put G-men on the trail of the alleged spies was L. V. McCloud, who was called as the government's opening witness. McCloud testified he found the money and evidence in a suit he got from Gorin, Pacific coast manager of Intourist, Inc., the Soviet travel agency.

"When I saw that the writing appeared to be in Russian, I talked with my employer, and then turned them over to Hollywood police," he said. "The police copied the note and drawings and gave them back. I put them back in the envelope along with the $50 bill and notified Mrs. Gorin."

Former Champ To Wrestle In Court
Gus Sonnenberg, former world champion wrestler, today was matched with a new form of opponent. He will wrestle with a $2500 law suit filed in superior court here by J. H. Edwards, who claims to hold a promissory note of the old Dartmouth football star and flying tackle of the mats.

According to the complaint filed here through Attorney R. C. Mize, Sonnenberg gave his note to J. O. Allen August 10, 1937, at the Plaza Hotel in Hollywood. Allen assigned the note to Edwards.

Fear Dutch Ship Torpedo Victim
CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 22.—(UP)—The Radiomarine Corporation station here intercepted a relayed SOS call today from an unidentified ship which said it had been torpedoed by an unknown submarine and was sinking.

The call was relayed by the American Freighter Tulsa, which said it had picked up the SOS from a ship with the call letters, PECC. The call letters were not listed in marine directories, Radiomarine said, but were believed to be those of a Dutch ship.

The sinking ship's position was given as latitude 32.10 north and longitude 37.45 west, believed to be several hundred miles south of the Azores.

Four Killed In Tornado
WINDSOR, N. C., Feb. 22.—(UP)—The death toll of a tornado which swept through a coastal farm area near here reached four today with the death of Mrs. George Lawrence, 66, in a hospital.

The storm injured 100 persons and destroyed 40 homes. It cut a three-mile path through the farm settlement before blowing itself out over Albemarle Sound.

Search Wreckage
State highway patrolmen spent the night rescuing the injured, many of whom lay in the wreckage of their homes during the torrential rain that followed the wind. At least 17 were seriously hurt and the hospital here was crowded beyond capacity.

The storm struck early last night, when many families were sleeping.

PASADENA ORGANIST ADMITS ABDUCTION
PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Police today said Townsend Davis, 40, church organist, had confessed he abducted eight-year-old Anne Louise Sweitzer last Sunday because her parents were moving from the neighborhood and he feared he never would see the child again.

Davis is held on a charge of child stealing and on suspicion of morals offenses.

He and the girl were apprehended late Monday as Davis attempted to cross the state border at Yuma, Ariz.

Bought Gifts
Because the front wheels of Davis' ancient automobile were a foot over the boundary line he may face charges of violating the Lindbergh kidnapping law.

Police said Davis admitted lavishing gifts upon the child to gain her favor and that he had confessed taking liberties with her prior to their flight Sunday to Arizona, where Davis said he planned to leave the girl at the home of a friend.

GUAM FIGHT BLOCKS BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Controversy over authorizing $5,000,000 for improvements on the island of Guam today delayed final House action on the $53,800,000 bill to strengthen naval air bases.

The House resumed general debate on the bill with indications that a showdown on the Guam proposal and passage of the whole measure would not come before tomorrow.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D., Ga., of the House naval affairs committee, who sponsored the measure, predicted that the Guam provision would be retained, but Republican opponents of the proposal—branded by Rep. Hamilton Fish, R., N. Y., as a "dagger at the throat of Japan"—were equally confident that it would be eliminated.

Bone of Contention
The Guam section was the only controversial point in the bill. Republicans have agreed to support provisions for establishment of 11 bases termed vital for national defense.

Rep. Joseph B. Shannon, D., Mo., disagreeing with the Democratic majority, described the Guam proposal as "another move to send a lot of American boys to soldiers' graves."

Democrats supporting the bill emphasized—as has Mr. Roosevelt—that the authorization for Guam would provide only for dredging the harbor and building a sea line ramp and a power station.

Voice Opposition
The controversy over Guam extended even to the Senate where Sen. Robert R. Reynolds, D., N. C., said the United States should

SOLON ASKS RECALL OF ENVOY TO MEXICO
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Rep. Martin J. Kennedy, D., N. Y., today introduced a resolution in the House seeking recall of Ambassador Josephus Daniels from Mexico to report on "the fulfillment of his representations" to that country over American rights.

Daniels would be recalled to "report directly to the proper committee of the House concerning the repeated violations of American rights in Mexico."

The resolution would require that Daniels give "the reasons for the fulfillment of his representations and protests to the Mexican government in respect to these violations which are constantly recurring despite the fact that the state department has led the American people to believe that negotiations with Mexico are pending which will satisfactorily result in."

Previously Davis had told authorities his motive for abducting the child was that he wanted to get her away from "her bad environment at home," her bad parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sweitzer, vehemently denied this. Davis said he and Anne Louise planned their flight last week. He said he bought her a dress last Saturday.

Girl Is Held
"I asked her what her mother would say about going away and she said 'Mother won't care, but Daddy will.' Anne Louise said several times that her mother was nice to her but that her Daddy beat her and I felt sorry for her," police quoted Davis as saying.

The girl is being held by juvenile authorities pending investigation.

Police surgeons, who examined the girl yesterday following her return from El Centro, said there was evidence to bear out Davis' confession that he had molested the girl twice while spending Sunday night in an auto camp at Indio.

F.D.R. On Scene Of Navy Maneuvers
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22.—(UP)—With President Roosevelt on the scene, opposing units of the navy were believed to be making contacts today in war games designed to test vulnerability of the western hemisphere against aggressive attack directed from Europe.

The President was aboard the Cruiser Houston, the wide scope of the war games—technically known as fleet problem No. 20—was emphasized by Mr. Roosevelt himself in a brief message from the Houston.

The message, signed by the President's aide, Capt. Daniel J. Callaghan, pointedly noted that the maneuvers are not being conducted within the Caribbean Sea itself and that they did not relate specifically to defense of the Panama Canal. It noted that the maneuver area was some 1500 miles distant from the canal.

LESS TALK, PLEASE!
PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 22.—(UP)—What the world needs, Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton University, said today is less talk about "what the world needs."

Today's record crowd at the Fox West Coast theater surpassed even that of yesterday, when late comers almost despaired of finding seats in the crowded auditorium.

Following instructions on Tuesday afternoon in preparation of such toothsome dishes as spinach-stuffed baked ham, barbecued lamb ribs, and roast beef with Yorkshire pudding, not to mention sunny orange cake and Dixie pecan pie, cooking school pupils were shown the finer points in preparation of even more diversified dishes.

STAY AWAY FROM CALIFORNIA, IS WARNING OF UNEMPLOYED
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Representatives of California's unemployed today warned fellow unfortunates in other parts of the United States that only starvation and destitution await them if they migrate here, in testimony before the senate committee on social security, pensions and relief.

Migrants, denied state relief until they have lived one year in California, are huddled in "filthy" camps, slowly starving to death, two representatives of the Workers Alliance, an organization of unemployed workers, told the committee.

The Rev. Gerald Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, will officiate at the rites.

HUNDREDS FLOCK TO COOKING SCHOOL AS EVENT NEARS END
BY ELEANOR ELLIOTT
It's sad news, friends, but the big Register All-Electric Cooking school is slowly but surely drawing to a close. Just one more day and we will have to bid adieu to vivacious Emily Conklin, permitting her to go on to other fields, but retaining pleasant memories of her charm, and a gold mine of information regarding the ease of preparing meals with tempting new recipes.

Today's record crowd at the Fox West Coast theater surpassed even that of yesterday, when late comers almost despaired of finding seats in the crowded auditorium.

Ask Payment For Project JAPAN PLANS 'ULTIMATUM'

A surprise demand from Basich Brothers, contractors on the Santa Ana river levee project, for full payment immediately of the $78,000 due on the job up to February 1, was served upon the county supervisors yesterday by L. W. Blodgett, attorney for the contractors.

Blodgett notified the board that the flood control district has failed to perform terms of the contract; that the contractors have suffered and are continuing to suffer damages thereby; that the exact amount of damage is not yet determined but the district will be held responsible.

Cites Failures
Specifically, Blodgett pointed out, the district has failed to pay by the tenth of each month for the work done the preceding month; and has failed to make a final estimate and pay the amount due under it.

Suprised
Supervisors expressed surprise at appearance of the demand, because an arrangement was made whereby the district agreed to immediately pay $50,000 to Basich Brothers, the remainder to be deferred until funds were available. No action was taken yesterday.

The board yesterday accepted another completed contract in connection with the river project, the supplying of 750 tons of used rails, and 132.10 tons of additional rails, by the Hyman, Michaels company, of Los Angeles.

JURY HEARS VICTIM OF VICIOUS ATTACK
Still convalescing from gun wounds allegedly inflicted by her divorced husband, and exhausted after a full day of testifying and cross-examination in court, Mrs. Virginia Holmes, 16, of Santa Ana, was helped from the witness stand late yesterday in Judge H. G. Ames court, where Laverne Holmes, 22, is on trial for her attempted murder.

The girl identified bloodstained blouse and underthings she had worn on the night Holmes allegedly broke into her home and forced her to accompany him on an automobile ride that ended at a hospital, the girl with two bullet wounds in her breast.

Escapes Death
One bullet, barely missing her heart, had gone entirely through her body. Not until she had been in the hospital some time did the girl learn how critically she had been wounded, and she then became hysterical, it was said.

The asserted attack upon her came one day after she had obtained her divorce. Holmes, she testified in court, had made a love note to her on the ride, before shooting her twice.

Pleads Insanity
Holmes now pleads insanity in defense to the charge of attempted murder. His insanity trial will follow the present trial next Monday, if the current trial is finished by that time.

Assistant District Attorney Joel Ogle, for the state, and Attorney N. D. Meyer, for the defense, are arrayed in the legal battle over Holmes.

Economist Raps Townsend Plan
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—The Townsend old age pension bill was attacked today as "fantastic" by Dr. J. Frederick Dewhurst, a New York economist now associated with the 20th century fund. He appeared before the House ways and means committee which is conducting hearings on social security and related pension schemes.

He maintained the sensible approach to the old age pension problem was through social security, "which has proven successful in a score of foreign countries."

He said the two per cent transaction tax proposed by the Townsend bill, which calls for pensions of up to $200 monthly for those over 60 who have retired from gainful employment, would not yield anything like the amount Townsend supporters "have been led to believe."

DIDN'T NEED COURSE

WARRIOR COUNCIL
A Japanese army spokesman said: "The Japanese army takes a most serious view of this incident. It was evidently an attempt deliberately planned and directed against the Japanese army."

He intimated that the army would demand that the municipal council take stern measures to suppress terrorism, and that if it did not, the Japanese would take stern measures themselves.

Japanese unofficially were protesting angrily against the assassination of Foreign Minister Chen. The municipal council reported that the assassination was effected in Japanese-controlled territory, and added that the police of that area frequently refused to cooperate with municipal police.

CONSOLIDATED GROWERS PLAN TO BUILD $38,000 ICE PLANT

Authority to proceed with plans for a new $38,000 ice plant was given directors of the Consolidated Orange Growers association at an annual meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Intermediate school, with the stipulation that such plans should be carried out if, in the judgment of directors, the move would be beneficial to growers affiliated with the organization.

The plant would have a capacity of 40-tons daily, the building and installation is estimated to cost $11,500, equipment and fixtures, $26,500 with $5000 yearly for salaries and utilities. Wade Flippin, head of the pre-cooling committee stated that had the plant been in operation since 1931 the average savings per year would have amounted to $7266. The plant will be built directly south of the pre-cooling plant according to present plans. A directors meeting is scheduled for March 14 when a decision will be reached. The new unit would be built with savings effected yearly by its operation.

Directors Listed

Henry Terry presided at the meeting and all former directors were returned to their places with the exception of H. T. Thompson, who resigned from the board, and who was replaced by Douglas Marshburn. Other directors are Terry, H. W. Walker, Wade Flippin, W. S. Thompson, L. W. Eaton, R. Y. Williams, George Seba and C. D. Holmes.

Frank H. Collins, secretary and manager, gave an annual report including the results of a detailed study of orange growing and marketing. The past season, it was stated had seen the largest crop and the lowest price ever paid for oranges. Contributing causes for prices were named as a large increase in the production of Florida oranges, the low buying power of the consumer and development of granulation. Collins pointed out that the export price paid for oranges had been lowered by large shipments from South Africa and Brazil which were on the foreign markets.

Tells of Infra-Red Rays

Of great interest was the report of experiments made with the infra-red ray lamps which have been conducted by Collins at the Consolidated plant. He stated that oranges have been placed at temperatures ranging from 22 to 28 degrees above zero, a part of them protected by the infra-red lamp and a part unprotected. The ones in contact with the rays, said Collins, were not harmed by the cold, while the others showed marked effects of the freeze. The lamps

Garden Grove Man Reported Missing

Worried relatives asked Sheriff Jesse L. Elliott's aid yesterday in hunting for Roger William Crosby, 46, of Garden Grove, who has been away from home since February 9, according to reports.

Crosby is described as being five feet, four inches tall, weighing 130 pounds, having blue eyes, dark brown hair. He was wearing a black leather coat lined with sheepskin when he disappeared, according to C. G. Crosby, his brother, and M. B. Allen, his brother-in-law, both of Garden Grove. The man being sought wears dark glasses most of the time.

SALESMAN CHECKED

Report that a man was selling men's suits, and rugs, led police to Patrick McNally, Wisconsin man, who had a license to sell here. He was allowed to continue.

FLYING AROUND with DALE DECKERT

Troy Colbach of Santa Ana, who is world's champion parachute jumper, made his "solo" flight at the Martin airport this past week. He was instructed by Joe Hager, and although Troy has made hundreds of parachute jumps, he never took flying seriously until a few months ago, when he started taking lessons.

The 30-ton bomber—the world's biggest—which hopped from Langley Field, Va., on February 4, with supplies for the Chili earthquake victims, wasn't the only American built warplane which went on the mission of mercy. Six Martin Bombers went from Buenos Aires, Argentina, on January 28 with similar supplies. The word was flashed to the Glenn L. Martin company plant at Middle River, Md.

The British Air Ministry has agreed to the plan whereby transatlantic service is to be instituted by Imperial Airways and Pan American Airways. Captain H. H. Balfour, undersecretary for air, announced in London that either line could start as soon as it got ready if America agreed. The Imperial Airways will begin experimental service about June 1. The route which its transports will follow will be Southampton, England; Shannon, Ireland; Botwood, Newfoundland; Montreal, Canada; Port Washington, N. Y.

The new Stinson cabin ship recently purchased by the airport will be used for charter trips to the World's Fair in San Francisco. Briefly, the plan is to carry three passengers and to leave here any morning at about five o'clock, returning late the next afternoon.

Absent-mindedness when it comes to personal effects, has long been a trait of travelers, and air passengers are no exception. This was revealed recently when a survey was made of the many hundreds of items gathering dust in the lost and found department of American Airlines, Inc., in Chicago, waiting for someone to claim them. A list of articles inventoried in the survey covered 30 typewritten pages.

Honors seem to be evenly divided among the two sexes as to which is the most absent-minded, although the males seem to have the edge for this questionable honor. According to the American Airlines' officials, every effort is made to trace the owner of the property, and all such goods are kept in storage for a period ranging between one and two years before it is given to the Chicago Community Chest for distribution among destitute families.

Hanger Gossip . . . Dwight Hughes has purchased the Ryan B-5 from Bob Jeffrey and Calvin Lambert, and will equip it with brilliant Neon signs for night aerial advertising. . . . Jerry Keesley and a party of friends were the first from Santa Ana to fly to the World's Fair at San Francisco. . . . Did you know that the safety factor in winter flying on airlines is almost identical to the rest of the year—in fact, that during the past four years, this winter the safety factor for all airlines is even better than the rest of the year? . . . Happy landings.

BEARCE ESTATE ESTIMATED
The late Lillian H. B. Bearce, of Orange, who died February 14, left an estate valued at "more than $10,000" according to a petition just filed in superior court to probate the will, which leaves $1000 to a friend in Orange, Mrs. Jessie David, and distributes the rest equally among three second cousins, Ralph Burnham, Pasadena; William H. Burnham, Jr., of Pebble Beach; and Mary Burnham Wheeler, of Los Angeles.

Bill For Aerial Survey Of Orange County Flood Sent

Birdseye view of flood conditions in Orange county after the storms of last March 3 will cost the county flood control district $1055.23, if payment is made of a demand presented the board of supervisors late yesterday by the Fairchild Aerial Surveys.

The 150 pictures were made on March 4, the day after the flood, the bill just received asking $4 per picture, or $636; also $416.65 for eight and one-eighth hours of flying at $50 per hour; and $2.85 sales tax.

The supervisors referred the demand to Supervisor Willis Warner, who will pass the hat among various protection districts, seeking assistance in meet the bill.

FARM GROUP TO MEET

Members of the water district of the Orange County Farm bureau will meet at the bureau offices Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, when the Metropolitan Water district and other projects will be discussed. John Murdy, Jr., of Smeltzer, is chairman of the department.

DRIVER NABBED AFTER MISHAP

Following a three-car collision at Seventeenth and Main streets at 7:50 p. m. yesterday, Carl B. Lindman, 45-year-old timekeeper, of New Westminster, was pronounced "very drunk" by an examining doctor and booked at county jail on a drunk driving charge.

The Lindman car collided with the rear of a car parked at the northeast corner of the intersection, knocking that car, registered to F. A. Burkett, 2311 Santiago street, into a car parked in front of the Burkett car and registered to Leland Finley, Route 1, Santa Ana.

Tell of Accident

Burkett and Merchant Patrolman R. W. Sullars were witnesses; Officers George Boyd and W. H. Heard made the arrest. Lindman was released on $200 bail under order to appear in city court March 14 at 2 p. m. for hearing.

Louis Hill, of the Y.M.C.A., whose car, parked on Church street between Sycamore and Broadway, was reported damaged by another car which did not stop, yesterday afternoon asked the name of the registered owner of 1939 license 5-X-4376. Police contacted Sacramento license officials and reported to Hill that license 5-X-4376 is registered to William Gutosky, Route 2, Box 361, Anaheim.

Welding Plant Deal Brings Suit

Asserted abandonment of a welding plant in Anaheim was claimed in a superior court complaint just filed by B. A. Stoffel, former owner of the plant, against Earl Johnson and Emma R. Johnson, who have repudiated their contract to purchase the plant, Stoffel alleges. He asks $1000 damages.

The abandonment came May 31, 1938, after the Johnsons had operated the plant since April 29, 1932, when they assertedly made the contract with Stoffel to purchase it for $2400. The plant is located at 201 South Helena street, Anaheim.

Stoffel asks $800 damages for depreciation of the plant, and $200 for material which he claims the defendants converted to their own use.

Race Officials Select Cooking School Coffee

"That Ben-Hur Supreme Quality Coffee" has what it takes in richer flavor and economy is pretty well established in the opinion and taste of southland housekeepers, said company officials. "But these folks will be interested to know that their own judgment is further substantiated by most of the important hotels and restaurants of this territory which uses Ben-Hur exclusively."

"When the management of Santa Anita track organized its restaurant and stand services the selection of a coffee was given as much consideration as any other major problem. The chosen brand must be extra-rich and extra-delicious and meet the taste of patrons of every class."

"Only after the most exacting cup tests of all brands sold in the southwest was a coffee chosen—and that coffee was Supreme Quality Ben-Hur. Since Santa Anita's opening day no other coffee has been served by the racing association."

INSURANCE GROUP CHECKS ACCIDENTS

Compulsory automobile insurance is not the solution to the terrific cost of motor accidents was the consensus of a meeting of more than 30 insurance salesmen of Orange county yesterday at Daniger's cafe.

Following a discussion led by Elmer White, president of the state association and Frank Coleridge, executive secretary, of various measures before the state legislature that effect the insurance business, the group discussed compulsory insurance for motorists and were of the opinion that the law violator ought to carry the insurance.

Aubrey Lake, of Fullerton, presided at the meeting. Mac O. Robbins was in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

PEAKERS TELL OF BEAN DRIVE

Bean and beet growers held their annual institute at the arm Bureau hall yesterday, with 25 present for the all-day session. Vernon Heil, of Smelter, chairman of the sugar beet department, presided at the morning meeting, while W. M. Gory, assistant farm advisor, was chairman for the afternoon in the absence of Ivan Parker, bean department head.

Speaking on "The Current Bean Outlook," R. L. Churchill, manager of the California Lima Bean Growers' association, told of efforts being made to increase the consumption of beans through retail food stores.

Recipes Printed
Churchill told of the use of two-pound paper bags in the campaign to increase sales. Recipes for bean dishes are printed in the bags. Attractive displays also are being used in the bean campaign, Churchill said.

Other speakers and their topics were J. B. Brown, irrigation specialist, University of California, "Fundamentals of Soil and Water Relations;" W. M. Cory, "Relationship of Water and Plant Food To Yields of Sugar Beets and Lima Beans;" J. P. Fairbanks, agricultural engineer, University of California, "Threshing Damage to Seed Beans;" Wallace Sullivan, specialist in farm management, "Factors Involved in Production of Farm Products;" J. P. Fairbank, "Experiments With Sugar Beet Machinery;" and Charles Price, of Riverside, sugar beet investigator of the U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry, who told of his work.

"MUSIC WASHINGTON LOVED" IS THEME FOR S. A. ARTS CLUB

"Music That Washington Knew" provided for Musical Arts club, one of its most unique programs yesterday when members lunched together at Danigers, and welcomed the return of their president, Cecil Fross Willits (Mrs. Thomas H. Willits) after her several weeks' absence because of illness.

This program, delving into the musical foundations of the nation, called forth much research work on the part of Mrs. Mabel Seeds Spizy, not only in preparation of the information read by Julia Constance Layman, but in the songs and marches of the period. For she has been instrumental in collecting many of these in a little volume of "Early American Songs."

Mrs. Layman's commentaries went back to the colonial days when such music as there was, centered in the churches, some of which disapproved of the innovation of the organ. She told of Washington's apparent appreciation of music, as evidenced in his purchase of a fine harpsichord for Nellie Custis. Numbers illustrating her talk, included "The Way-Worn Traveler" which his daughter used to play for him on that same harpsichord. This was sung by Mary Batten Steffenson and Beulah Parker with Clarence Gustlin as accompanist.

The latter played a March of 1784 and "The President's March" (1789), and accompaniments for the various song numbers. The "Liberty Song" was sung by Holly Lash Visel and Bess G. Nalle; two trios, "My Days Have Been So Wondrous Fair" and "Welcome, Mighty

COUNTY CRAFT TO BE CHECKED

An ordinance requiring registration of craft at Newport Harbor with the county assessor, for purposes of taxation, and setting up a system of numbering such boats, to check on their registration, was adopted by the county supervisors yesterday, after the draft had been presented by Special Counsel James E. Walker.

The ordinance applies to craft not covered by federal registration requirements. Such craft are required by state law to register with the county assessor.

Displayed On Bow
The ordinance adopted yesterday provides that craft receiving registration certificates and serial numbers from the county as-essor, must display such numbers at their bow, either by painting or otherwise affixing them, in numerals at least three inches high and an inch and a half wide.

Violation of the ordinance constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $500, or imprisonment for not more than six months in county jail, or by both fine and imprisonment.

POSSIBILITY OF INVASION BY FOREIGN POWER IS REVEALED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—The Senate military affairs committee today revealed testimony by a government official that if Germany wished to send a fleet of large bombing planes through Latin America to the United States' southern boundaries, "they would have the facilities to do so."

The testimony was given by G. Grant Mason, jr., member of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. He appeared before the committee on Jan. 30 to recite his impressions of the advances made by Germany and other foreign powers in the air.

Market Periled
A transcript made public by Committee Chairman Morris Sheppard, D. Tex., showed that he also said both Germany and Italy were making rapid advances "which, if not arrested, might well end in virtually shutting the United States out of the Latin-American aviation market."

Mason told the committee: "If they (Germany) wished to send—I have no indication of thought whether they will or not—if they wished to send a large

FEDERAL GROUP IN MOVE TO SOLVE MIGRATION PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Works Progress Administrator F. C. Harrington planned today for what may develop into a drive by government agencies to solve the problem of interstate migration of labor and particularly the plight of California, where 60,000 families are expected to be stranded during 1939.

Harrington, designated by President Roosevelt to head a committee to study the situation and make specific recommendations, will discuss the problem tomorrow with William R. Lawson, WPA administrator for Northern California Social Security Board Chairman Arthur B. Altmyer, Surgeon-General Thomas Parran of the U. S. public health service, Farm Security Administrator F. S. Alexander, Acting U. S. Housing Administrator Leon Keyserling and Acting U. S. Employment Service Director O. D. Hollendeck.

Ordered By FDR
The meeting was ordered by the President, who was reported to have been impressed by a brief drawn by a committee headed by Rep. Alfred J. Elliott, D. Calif., other members were Rep. Jerry H. Voorhis, D. Calif., and Rep. Thomas F. Ford, D. Calif. Through his secretary, Stephen S. Early, Mr. Roosevelt asked an immediate study of the problem.

In their memoranda, the congressmen said the California problem has five principal phases: employment, health, relief, housing and education. They recommended immediate establishment of emergency hospitals in California to guard the health of 60,000 families, and suggested that the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation might help by earmarking surplus food stuffs to distribute to the needy. Federal grants in aid to the states affected most seriously by the problem of migration and establishment of federal migratory labor camps were also urged.

separated, some members being at home and others in town. A crowd of 500 milled about the hospital most of the night looking for relatives or friends who they feared might be missing. Many families, left homeless, were given shelter at the armory at Edenton.

The full extent of the damage could not be determined until daylight. Except for the settlement of Green Cross Roads, where 10 houses were blown down, it was believed that the destruction had been confined to farms.

The dead were John W. Brown, 65, chief of police at Colerain, whose automobile crashed into the rear of a bus that had been forced to stop suddenly by a fallen tree; J. F. Mizelle, killed when his home collapsed, and Robert Lawrence, 94, who was dragged, mortally injured, from the wreckage of his home.

Mrs. McKinley Conner was missing. A party was organized to search for her.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(UP)—George Katz, a Brooklyn accountant of moderate means, revealed today that his son, Michael, 4, had been kidnaped Monday morning and released that night after payment of "approximately $300" ransom. The boy was not harmed.

The kidnapers, two unidentified men, had demanded $7000, but agreed to the reduced ransom when Katz told them that he could pay no more.

Child Snatched
About 8:30 a. m. Monday, shortly after Mrs. Katz had started for the New York school where she is a teacher, Michael left the house with a Negro maid to go to kindergarten. Two men approached the maid, wrested Michael from her arms, tossed him in an automobile, threw the maid a note, and drove away.

The note contained ransom demands and instructions as to how it should be paid. The maid turned it over to Katz.

Pays Ransom
Katz said that he and an intermediary, whom he refused to identify, went to the "vicinity of Broome street in Manhattan" to meet the kidnapers late in the afternoon. He said the abductors were in an alley as they approached. Someone called, "here we are," after which the intermediary entered a doorway and talked to one of the kidnapers.

The intermediary and kidnaper conversed a few minutes and then the money was paid. A few minutes later the child was freed.

Next day the blonde, pretty wife of the Soviet official called at the cleaning shop and nervously inquired for the packet. It was given to her with no hint that federal agents and naval intelligence operatives were already on the Goring's trail. This occurred about Oct. 30, of last year, about two months before they were indicted.

The drawings had been stolen from secret files of the naval intelligence bureau, and the note contained names of suspected Japanese spies operating on the Pacific coast, U. S. Attorney Benjamin Harrison charged. A translation of the note will be read in court later. Harrison said it links Goring with Salich, who worked in the intelligence bureau and allegedly filched secrets for which Goring paid $1700. The government alleges Goring was sent here specifically to obtain the national defense secrets.

Becomes an Art
This electric cookery as demonstrated by Miss Conklin, makes cooking an art rather than a three-times-a-day task. And her ideas seem revolutionary to members of the sear the roast and retain the juices school. Don't sear the roast, says she. And slips one into a 300 degree oven unseared and unwatered. Merely on a little wire tray to lift it away from its own juices. Results, with the use of one of those new meat thermometers, one of which is given away each day, are perfection, no less. A juicy roast, done to whatever turn you wish, rare, medium or well done, golden brown juices in the pan ready for the yorkshire pudding—and presto! there's your meat dish all according to Miss Emily Conklin—and the wonders of electricity.

Don't miss tomorrow afternoon. Promptly at 2 o'clock remember, Miss Conklin has plenty of surprises up her sleeve for you. They will include award of prizes following the same plan as that of yesterday afternoon. Winners at this opening event were Mrs. L. M. Kirby, Mrs. Robert Sebert, Mrs. R. Ayon, Ella Muskopf, Jeanette Kisel, Mrs. Clarence Spaw, Mrs. E. C. McKinney, Mrs. Ella King, Mrs. Fred Hunter, Nickol Sward, Catherine Clodt, Mrs. Eileen Dyer, Mrs. George L. Felton, Mrs. Elsie Hanson, Mrs. Sadie Limbirt, Mrs. E. A. Bell, Mrs. Mae Conzelman, and Mrs. Edward O. Brunner.

Police In Search For Abductor

MARYSVILLE, Cal., Feb. 22.—(UP)—James Osborne, 30 year old relief worker who assertedly coaxed his 12 year old stepdaughter into his automobile then started to drive out of town with her, was sought today for questioning by police.

Officers said they wanted to learn more about Osborne's attempted flight with Gwendolyn Scacewater, the stepchild, Monday night. They said Osborne had been drinking excessively since Saturday and that Mrs. Osborne had become alarmed and asked a search when her daughter did not return home after attending a movie.

The child was discovered at a ranch yesterday. She told of entering her stepfather's car on the presumption he would take her home. Instead, she said, he started to leave the city, and she jumped out, hiding until morning in some bushes along the road.

U. S. Investigates Plane Crashes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Rear Admiral Frank H. Sadler and three other officers plan to leave here tomorrow for Pensacola, Fla., to investigate the series of crashes in which two student pilots were killed and eight planes destroyed.

A "crash board" at Pensacola today reviewed circumstances of the accidents, which occurred Monday night when heavy fog enveloped a 12 ship routine training flight.

The "crash board" is empowered to make a preliminary investigation and its findings will be reviewed by a formal board of inquiry which Secretary of Navy Claude A. Swanson designated Admiral Sadler to head.

Movie Tarzan To Take New Mate

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Johnny Weissmuller, the movie Tarzan, said today he would marry Beryl Scott, daughter of a wealthy San Francisco rug dealer, when his divorce from Lupe Velez becomes final next August.

The wedding date will be set, Weissmuller said, when he completes his new Tarzan picture.

Recently a pilot flying his own "flivverplane" powered with a 50-horsepower motor, made a non-stop transcontinental flight from Los Angeles to New York in 30 hours, 47 minutes at a cost of $25 for gasoline and oil.

Center Of Art Controversy

Pictured above is one of six 18-foot murals now being completed at San Diego Civic Center by two Santa Ana artists, Jean Goodwin and Arthur Ames. It was the work of Miss Goodwin that caused Arthur Miller, art critic of the Los Angeles Times, to say "I class her as Southern California's foremost woman painter"—a statement that has been challenged by local critics, including Donald Button, former newspaper art critic and secretary of the Santa Ana Library art committee, who is of the opinion that Ruth Peabody, Laguna Beach abstractionist, is better qualified for the title. The picture above is part of the detail from the mural "Agriculture."—W.P.A. Federal Art Project Photo.

ed urgently to Tokyo for authority to make an issue of the open attack on the Japanese army automobile.

In the Japanese parliament, members demanded use of "force" to eliminate terrorism in the International Settlement area of Shanghai.

As all this was going on yesterday—terrorists, in a street of the International Settlement, walked up to Marquis Li Kuochieh, wealthy industrialist unofficially associated with the Japanese-sponsored "reformed" government, and shot him dead.

This morning a combined patrol of the municipal police and police of the Japanese controlled Tatao area went on a search for suspects in the Kungdah mill bombing.

They found a group of five men whom they suspected. They opened fire on the five. The suspects responded with a volley. One Tatao policeman fell dead. A Chinese municipal policeman was wounded. The suspects fled safely.

The wounded policeman died in a hospital.

Billings May Be Heard By Board

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 22.—(UP)—Warren K. Billings, 30 called "forgotten man" of the San Francisco Preparedness parade bombing of 1916, may be given an opportunity to appear before the advisory pardon board tomorrow when the board considers his pardon application.

Although a second offender and thus eligible to pardon only on recommendation of the state supreme court, Billings claims he was convicted on the same testimony that sent his partner, Tom Mooney, to San Quentin prison for 22 years. He asks the same full and unconditional pardon which Gov. Culbert L. Olson granted Mooney a week after he became governor.

Lt. Gov. Ellis E. Patterson said it was very likely the advisory board would go to Folsom prison to permit Billings to appear before the board.

adjustments caused by the earlier outrages against American citizens since the inception of the Cardenas dictatorship.

Kennedy explained in an accompanying statement that he believed it is time for Congress to have a direct report from Daniels "as to the exact happenings in Mexico."

"There surely must be something wrong in our representation in Mexico," Kennedy said. "The inconsistency between the Mexican promises that are fed to Congress through the state department and the published reports of outrages more than justify Congress taking a real hand in this situation."

STRONGER DEFENSE URGED IN 8-POINT "LIBERAL PROGRAM"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Rep. Jerry H. Voorhis, D., Calif., suggested an eight-point program today "for 1939 liberals who would preserve democracy in the United States." He called for a strong national defense program and a policy of "no outside interference" in affairs of the western hemisphere.

Voorhis recently was appointed to fill a vacancy on the House committee investigating un-American activities. He is one of the leaders of the House liberal group, known as the "Young Turks," who were led in the last Congress by former Rep. Maury Maverick, of Texas.

Strong Defenses

His suggested program included:

1. A strong national defense program "for the sole purpose of implementing a foreign policy of peace."

2. Clear understanding that it is "none of our business what kind of government other nations have—and none of their business what kind we have."

3. Definite notice that "it is our business" if European or Asiatic nations interfere in any way with the right of self-determination of nations of the western hemisphere, with a guarantee that the United States itself would refrain from such interference.

Build Up Trade

4. Building up of "mutually advantageous trade" with other nations.

5. Reform the monetary system "so that we can without increasing the public debt have the expansion of volume of money and credit necessary for absorption of the products of mass industry."

6. Some system of old-age pensions, and a lowering of interest rates and of "prices in monopoly industries."

7. An "orderly, stable program of public works" designed to produce not only national improvements but work for the unemployed, "with self-liquidating projects to be financed by treasury credit."

8. An intelligent program "to do something about farm prices."

Two new members were initiated into the Santa Ana 20-30 club last night at a dinner meeting which featured Otto Powell and his son, Bob Powell, in talks on the "Modern Trend in Lighting," explanation of the science of Neon lighting.

John Knox, past president of the club, initiated Howard Hales and Denton Mosier, both of Santa Ana, into the group. It was announced at the meeting, held at Daningers with President Lee Smith as chairman, that the board of directors has selected Hugh Walker for the post of second vice president, to replace Barney McKenna. McKenna resigned to take a job in the north with a lumber company. Approximately 50 20-30 club members attended last night.

MUSIC LOVERS IN RARE EVENT

Santa Ana had an unusual experience last night, one of the rare cases of the "mountain coming to Mahomet." For hundreds of local music lovers sat in on a radio broadcast. The occasion was the second Cantando club concert of the season, the last half of which was broadcast from the stage of Santa Ana High school auditorium over a West Coast network.

In point of excellence and sheer beauty, this part of the concert program directed by Joseph J. Klein, was in no way superior to the earlier part. But the hour was the determining factor in what should be sung.

Praise of Commentator

It may be that the city was awakened to a new appreciation of this singing organization when it heard it described in such glowing terms by Art Baker, the evening's master of ceremonies from the major studio. For in his introductory remarks, he paid full tribute to a group of men representing such varied pursuits, drawn together by a shared interest in music.

His short introductions to the numbers for the benefit of the unseen audience of the air, were thoroughly appreciated by the visible audience, which perhaps because of them, enjoyed the more thoroughly the club's stirring "Border Ballad" (Mauder); "The Phantom Band" (Thayer), the beating drums of whose refrain were repeated as an encore; "Lazy Song" (Lawson) and Arthur Sullivan's "The Lost Chord."

Baritone Soloist

These introductions doubled interest also in the baritone solos of the gifted guest artist, Allan Watson, whose first group was accompanied by Wilbur Chenoweth, composer of "The Arrow and the Song," and who sang also "David and Goliath" (Malotte), and the solo part in "The Lost Chord," both to Miss Ruth Armstrong's accompaniment.

Another unique phase of the program, was the fact that the order of encore was reversed, and because of the fact that the broadcasting period allowed no time for encores by the guest artist, he delighted his audience by singing two additional songs just in advance of the interval on the air. They were "Ride Tenderfoot, Ride," with Cantando members rising nobly to demands for the interpolated whistling obbligato, and the amusing "Old Mother Hubbard" in the lofty style of a Handel oratorio. Chorus numbers included the unaccompanied "Dedication" of Robert Franz, whose softly hummed measures served as introduction to the radio phase of the concert.

Individual introductions included director and accompanist, Joseph J. Klein and Miss Armstrong; the composer, Wilbur Chenoweth; H. Park Arnold, musical director for Kiwanis International; Charles Hurd, noted in oratorio work; Van C. Newkirk, radio program director; and several local men in the audience, including Mayor Fred C. Rowland and Ernest L. Spencer, local radio man.

All applicants for non-military flying certificates must now take a special vision test which takes into consideration the varying facility of the human eye to read printed matter on white and variously colored paper.

WATER DIRECTORS NOTE OPERATIONS

Water operations in the upper counties were discussed when directors of the Orange County Water district met yesterday afternoon. Paul Bailey, engineer for the board; J. D. Pendergrast, engineer for the East Lugonia Water company, Redlands, and Attorney Robert Mize conferred with the board.

The board will organize March 7 and hold a regular meeting the following day. Selection of a secretary to replace Director C. A. Palmer, who was not a candidate for re-election, will be one of the matters to come before the board next month.

The new directors to take their places March 7 are Dian Gardner, of Orange, and J. J. Denni, of Cypress, who succeeded William Schumacher and Palmer.

Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Water Cress Good for Something Besides Just a Garnish

Of the numerous members of the family of green vegetables, water cress is among the most ancient. It was used by the ancient Persians as well as by the Greeks and Romans. The famous historian Xenophon advised Persians to feed water cress to their children if they wished to improve bodily growth.

Among British writers in the 16th century, water cress was recommended as a remedy against scurvy. We know today that scurvy is caused by deficiency of vitamin C in the diet, and we know also that the leafy green vegetables are an excellent source of this vitamin.

Water cress is a plant which grows usually where there are fresh brooks with gravel bottoms. It belongs to the family of vegetables which includes cabbage, cauliflower, kale, Brussels sprouts, mustard, turnips and radishes.

An English writer in the 16th century said, "The eating of water cress doth restore the wonted bloom in the cheeks of old young ladies." We know today that the chief value of this vegetable lies in its content of four of the well-known vitamins. It is even a richer source of vitamin B and G than are lettuce, cabbage and spinach, and it is also a rich source of vitamins A and C.

Like other leafy green vegetables, water cress is also a useful product because of its content of important minerals. It contains, weight by weight, five times the quantity of iron ordinarily found in cabbage, celery, head lettuce, and even a greater percentage than is found in that most widely reputed source of this mineral: namely, spinach.

Now water cress is not a vegetable out of which people would make a full meal, or even a large part of one; it is, however, exceedingly useful in the diet as a component in salads of various kinds simply because it has a pungent flavor and a most appetizing appearance.

More recently housewives have learned to include water cress in sandwiches and as an appetizing addition to meats at luncheon and dinner.

ELECTRICALLY-COOKED vegetables taste better because you cook them in less water, due to the dependability of electric heat. Vegetables cook in their own delicious juices and every bit of flavor is retained. And they are more healthful and appetizing in appearance.

The good results you get with an electric range are attained easily. Much of your cooking is the matter of turning a switch. In some operations, the range assumes the entire responsibility of turning on the heat, turning it off and delivering the food hot and tempting when you want it.

Modern electric ranges are everything you want in beauty and efficiency. Have you seen the latest models?

SPORTS WORLD MOURNS DEATH OF PAT ROARK

PASADENA (UP)—International polo lost one of its most brilliant players today with the death of Capt. C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, 40, the Britisher who was fatally injured in the thick of a rough riding game here Sunday.

He died of a brain injury sustained when his pony fell and rolled on him. The game was between the British Westchester Cup team and the Midwick four of which he was No. 2 player. He never regained consciousness although surgeons operated in an attempt to save his life.

At his bedside when death came last night was his widow, the former Patsy Hostetter, and his brother, Aiden Roark, himself a top ranking player.

Capt. Roark, who for several years has lived in California, began riding and swinging the mallet when he was a boy of 10 in Ireland. A few years ago he was hailed by critics as the most polished No. 2 player ever developed in Europe.

He obtained his army rank during the World war. He served with the Royal Irish Rifles, the First Life Guards, a cavalry unit, and with the 34th Poona Horse, an Indian regiment.

Horning's One Big Moment

John C. Horning, young president of the Hollywood Jockey club, saw the racing world through rose-colored glasses as he stood between Sonja Henie, left, and Irmagard Dietel, a former Miss Florida, and broke the ribbon opening the new $1,400,000 Gulfstream Park. The track lasted four days.

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

Gulfstream Park, one of the country's most beautiful race tracks, stands as a monument to excessive enthusiasm or monumental stupidity or both... depending on how you look at it.

Gulfstream Park cost $1,400,000. It lasted just four days, so it cost its backers just $350,000 a day for their racing experience.

John C. Horning, 28-year-old heir to Pittsburgh steel fortunes, and his mother were the heaviest investors. Young Jack Horning spent more than a million himself building the track.

The proposition didn't make sense in the first place... a third track in the one Florida district bucking Hialeah Park, one of the finest and richest plants in the world and only 14 miles away.

Gulfstream's purses were too small and there were not enough stakes to attract the better horses even if they could have been yanked away from the Joseph E. Widener influence, which was extremely doubtful.

Curiosity, plenty of free tickets, and civic half holidays at Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood, towns nearest the new strip, accounted for 14,000 persons and a handle of $224,287 on opening day.

OUTCOME OF RACING WAR QUICKLY APPARENT

But Gulfstream's hopes suffered a terrific blow on the second day, when attendance dropped to 3500 and the total wagering on eight

Notes From Hawaii; Notre Dame Invited

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HONOLULU, T. H.—Notes written in the sand at Waikiki Beach:

If you think barefoot football in Hawaii is just a publicity gag listen to this—there are 1500 teams playing it each year, and the late Knute Rockne, who used to conduct coaching schools here, once said the barefoot boys with the cheeks of tan played the fastest game he had ever seen... The good kickers will average 50 yards with their punts and drop kick accurately up to 45 yards... The players use no pads, wearing only sailor mogus (pants) and jerseys... Speaking of football, the University of Hawaii wants Notre Dame down here, and is willing to pay the Irish $12,000 for two games, one with the university and one with the Senior League team...

I always thought Cypress Point at Monterey was the most beautiful golf course in America, but the Waialae links here, near the foot of Diamond Head, may have it beaten... The caddies have it easier at Waialae, because everything grows so luxuriantly and quickly here that divots do not have to be replaced... Gene Sarazen, who used to almost commute from the mainland to Honolulu had a great deal to do with the layout at Waialae...

One of the sports here, underwater spear fishing, is nothing for a sissy to try... The boys jump in the water carrying a 14-foot spear and trailing a big bag in which to place the catch... Sometimes they don't touch bottom for three or four hours... Another old-time sport involving the use of the spear was one in which one player stands 50 feet away while another hurls spears at him... The idea is to catch the spears... One mib, and flowers and slow music are in order... Only a select few ever played at this game, however...

DONS OFFERED CONTEST WITH CALIF. FROSH

Previous commitments probably will prevent Santa Ana junior college's football team from meeting the University of California Frosh at Berkeley October 14, it was indicated today.

Offer of such a game, sought by the Dons for several years, was made in a telegram received by Coach Bill Cook from the graduate manager's office at the state institution. It was the only date open on the Berkeley Cubs' 1939 schedule.

The date conflicts with a Santa Ana-Pomona contest in the Eastern conference.

Coach Cook conferred by phone with Pomona's coach, Joe Bonnet, and suggested that it might be feasible for the Dons and Red Raiders to postpone their league struggle until a mutual open date Nov. 23.

Bonnet said, however, that Pomona had agreed to play Compton Nov. 23 and doubted whether it would be possible to cancel that engagement.

The Pomona coach added that it would be agreeable with him to play Santa Ana later in the year if another suitable opponent could be signed for the Oct. 14 spot.

He suggested that Coach Cook confer with Pomona's athletic commissioner, A. M. Dermoth. The Santa Ana mentor said he would do so this afternoon.

A trip to Northern California has been a Don goal each season. Last year the Santa Anans went to San Mateo and in '37 they played the Stanford freshmen at Palo Alto. For this season, Cook had sent feelers to California and several junior colleges.

Saints Uncover Promising New Sprinter

Coach "Pinky" Greene may have found the fourth man for his relay team at Santa Ana high school yesterday.

A junior named Leo Mader, who last season ran spasmodically in the sophomore 660 event, turned in a brilliant race behind the veteran Wayne Piper in a trial heat over 150 yards. Although Greene timed Piper in 15.9 seconds, fairly good time, Mader was only two yards back and racing easily. This is the first time Mader has taken track seriously so Greene thinks he may develop into something.

Howard Elliott and Bob Kelchner captured the other heats of the "150," in 16.1 and 16.5 seconds, respectively. Jerome Duffy did not run. Behind Piper and Mader in the first heat were John Cleary and Rodney Bacon. Trailing Elliott were Daryl Sherry, Dick Roehm and Jack Granados. Closest to Kelchner were Stanley Jiles, Bill Guley and Francis Lincoln.

A trial 60 was taken by Leonard Wilbur in 1 min. 35 sec. This is Wilbur's first season on the cinderpath and Greene predicted he would be a promising half-mile. Bob Pollard, Robert Shaw, Stanford King and Max Rash placed in order behind Wilbur, a junior.

HUTCHINSON VISITS PALS AT ANAHEIM

ANAHEIM — Freddie (Big Hutch) Hutchinson unlimbered his big right arm today and sent a few over the La Palma plate the way he did last year for the Seattle Rainiers, when he burned up the Pacific Coast league.

The youthful phenom stopped off in Anaheim enroute to Orlando, Fla., to join the Detroit Tigers. He said he planned to spend two or three days here getting the kinks out of his pitching arm before proceeding east.

Last year, in his first season in organized baseball, the 19-year-old high school boy ran up a string of 20 victories as the Rainiers fought their way to second place in the standings.

WEST WINDS HERE AND THERE IN SPORT

NEW ALLEYS FOR BOWLERS

Major league in most every other sport, Santa Ana is now going first class in bowling, too. The new alleys to be constructed by W. R. and D. P. McBurney at 1007-1009 South Main street for M. E. and Carl (Johnny) Johnson will rate with the finest in Southern California, outside of Los Angeles.

Costing $20,000, the building is to measure 130 feet in depth and 75 in width. It will be 12 feet high. Brick and cement are to be used.

Work will get under way in ten days or two weeks. The grand opening is tentatively set for May 1.

Plans call for 12 alleys, six of 'em brand new maple driveways. The other six will be "modernized" and moved in from the present location of the Santa Ana Bowling academy at 406 West Fourth street. There the kegging fraternity has held out for the past three or four years under cramped conditions. The new layout will be twice its size.

Johnson says there won't be a post in the new place to obstruct the vision of either bowler or spectator. The entire house will be sound-proofed, equipped with all the latest gadgets such as electrical four-line system and scoreboards.

Circular seats will provide roomy comfort for those on each pair of alleys. There will be ample gallery space; cushioned seats will be installed.

There will be a restaurant and soft-drink parlor at the front. Large, airy lockers are to be built into a special room. There is even to be a clubroom.

Employees will have special quarters at the rear and pin-bowls will have a shower room at their disposal. Pins and other alley equipment is to be stored in specially protected chests.

Enlargement of the city's bowling facilities is in keeping with the renaissance of the 10-pin sport in Southern California, as well as the steady growth and development of Santa Ana.

Observers report that bowling has "taken on" amazingly in the past year all over the Southland. Several great new bowling palaces are thriving in Los Angeles. A syndicate headed by Walt Disney and Bing Crosby is preparing to build a Hollywood Sports Garden that will be large enough to attract the great American Bowling Congress tournament at some later date.

The game has flourished here since Johnson and Jamison teamed up. Johnson is rated one of the ablest alley managers in the business, has conducted his various leagues on a plane that has won completely the confidence of the rollers. A big, good-natured Swede, he has chilled the inevitable beef of the bowler with common sense, good judgment.

'Y' Leaguers Prepare For Final Week

One team, T. J. Neal's Sport-Goods, remains undefeated as the Y.M.C.A. Basketball league prepares to go into the final week of play. There will be no games the rest of this week.

On Monday of next week Karl's Shoe store meets the Barr Lumber company at 7 p. m. and Al's Lock and Key shop tangles with Treesweet Products at 8.

On Wednesday the Southern Counties Gas company takes on the Elitiste International Truckmen in the first game while Neal's meets Irvine in the final game of the season before the play-offs.

ABE FELDMAN PROMISES TO TRY FOR WIN

BY H. J. ARONSTAM

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
MIAMI—Tony Galento, whose Falstaffian feats threaten to overshadow his punching prowess, hopes to regain some of his waning prestige tonight with a quick knockout over Abe Feldman, a veteran who never has been involved in a tank job.

Alarmed at the sharp decrease in demands for a Joe Louis-Galento heavyweight title fight following the malodorous ending of Tony's recent bouts, his manager Joe (Barnum) Jacobs, figured the most effective restorative for lost lustre would be an impressive victory over a man of unquestioned honesty.

So Jacobs, sometimes called the best showman in the fight game, came up with the fading Feldman, once a fair boxer who has been battling with only mediocre success since he was knocked out by LeRoy Haynes three years ago. However, Abe was guaranteed without diving experience by his manager, Hymie Caplin.

Despite one of the grandest buildups ever enjoyed by a Miami match, it promises to be a financial foploper. It will do well to reach 50 per cent of Promoter R. K. Carter's predictions of 30,000 customers and a $60,000 gate. Neutral observers believe the figures in Burdine stadium tonight will come closer to 13,000 fans and $26,000.

Galento has warned the public to come early because "I'll molder der bum." The bout is scheduled for 10 rounds. Promoter Carter, however, prepared for a quick knockout by arranging another 10-round between N. B. A. Mid-dleweight Champion Solly Krieger, a Caplin managed fighter, and Ben Brown, promising Atlanta youngster.

Tony concluded his serious training with a beer barrel last night. He planned a half-mile of roadwork this morning to take off those last extra ounces around his middle. He was down to 235½ pounds after he walked through a gymnasium yesterday, and does not expect to add more than a couple of pounds before ring time.

"I'm in perfect fighting' trim right now," he said, "but a little roadwork will sharpen my left hook for dat bum."

Fight critics do not regard Feldman as any sort of test for Galento, and have pointed out that it will make little difference whether Tony gets his man in the first round or the sixth. It is felt generally that a man campaigning for a shot at Louis' crown has no business in the same ring with a has-been like Schen-actady Abe. The biggest surprise would be for Feldman to last the 10 rounds, and if he does Tony can kiss his hopes of a June title fight good-bye.

ARMSTRONG AGREES TO BOX DAVEY DAY

NEW YORK — (UP) — Announcement of the Henry Armstrong-Davey Day welterweight title fight in New York March 31 featured a flurry of activity on the boxing front today.

Armstrong, who took the crown from Ross last May, already is in Havana, preparing for his March 4 defense of the 147-pound title against Bobby Pacheco. Plans of his manager, Eddie Mead, also call for a welter fight in England during May. Armstrong probably will risk his lightweight title against Ambers in July.

The New York athletic commission ruled that regardless of the outcome of Ambers' fight with "Baby" Arizmendi Friday night, the Herkimer fighter will still be recognized as No. 1 challenger for the lightweight title.

Pedro Montanez, Puerto Rican welterweight contender, has been matched to fight Maxie Berger, the tough little man from Montreal, at the Garden March 17, the 20th Century club announced. Some fight critics had expected Montanez instead of Day to get the New York shot at Armstrong.

JACKSON FINISHES ROMERO IN EIGHTH

LOS ANGELES — (UP) — With Al Romero bleeding from a cut over the right eye, the referee stopped the fight in the eighth round last night and awarded a technical knockout to Young Peter Jackson. Jackson at 142, spotted his fellow townsman 10 pounds.

No Rival for Louis Abroad Says Dickson

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PARIS—There is not a heavyweight in Europe good enough to lace on Joe Louis' gloves, much less get into the ring with him, Jefferson Davis Dickson, jr., boxing czar on the continent, said today.

"We not only haven't a heavyweight good enough to give Louis a workout, but we haven't anyone in sight who might make a future opponent for him," said Dickson, the smiling, black-haired Southerner from Natchez, Miss., who is called the Tex Rickard of Europe.

Dickson did not include Max Schmeling, who conquered Louis in their first fight, because Jeff hasn't seen the Black Uhlan fight in years.

"Over here we don't know anything about Schmeling's condition because it has been so long since he fought in Europe. Louis stopped him in less than a round the last time they met so that's good enough for me," he said.

Many Have Ambition
"We've a couple of hundred youngsters all imbued with the idea of gaining fame and fortune by battling their way to a match with Louis. But most of them are mere novices and are years away from a challenger's role.

"The best French heavyweight is Francis Jacques who is in America now, and England's top man is Len Harvey, who is little more than a light-heavy. Harvey was beaten by John Henry Lewis a couple of years ago, so you can see how much chance he'd have against Louis. Besides he is about 31, and has fought at least 15 years.

"You'll laugh when I tell you of the best man in Germany is Walter Neusel who shot his bolt in America long ago. In Russia I heard there is a fellow who might lick Louis, but he's confined to Siberia for life, and I can't seem to get him out."

Dickson warned Louis against attempting an exhibition tour in Europe, saying it was doomed to financial failure.

"They wouldn't give used postage stamps over here to see Louis or anybody else participate in exhibitions. If we had a good young fighter over here, Louis could draw a huge gate, but I know European fight fans don't go for exhibitions."

Nazis Eye Olympic Title
He pointed out that Germany was almost devoid of good professional fighters "because the best ones are either soldiers who have to stay in the army or amateurs—and there's a law prohibiting them from becoming professionals if they are any good because Germany wants to win the next Olympic boxing championship."

Dickson believes the best fighter in Europe is a handsome, young Algerian, Marcel Cerdon, who looks something like Rudolf Valentino.

"He is a welterweight who has been fighting on the continent about a year," Dickson said, "and he hasn't been licked in 62 bouts. He's one of the busiest fighters I ever saw. He'll fight in Algiers one night and take on another opponent in Brussels three nights later after a plane trip across the Mediterranean. I predict it will not be long before he invades America and scores a great triumph at Madison Square Garden."

FLASHY FIELD OF 3-YR. OLDS AFTER $50,000

BY TOM GWYNNE

(Register Track Correspondent)
It's Derby Day at Santa Anita and 50,000 racegoers were expected to jam the course this afternoon for the $50,000 classic dedicated to 3-year-olds. The vanguard of the huge gathering started trickling in at 10 o'clock when the gates were thrown open to the Arcadia horse park.

Although 16 thoroughbreds were named overnight to start in the mile and an eighth classic, at least one, Race Riot, and possibly one or two others were expected to be scratched before post time at 4:12 o'clock. Race Riot is a "mud only" member of the Alfred Vanderbilt entry.

Later developments on the Derby front was the smashing trial of Impound, the Vanderbilt star, who worked five-eighths in :58 4-5. Most of the other er contenders were "blown out" for the race, but the times recorded were much slower.

Porter's Mite, the favorite, was sent an easy three-eighths on the training track, and appeared in fine shape.

Should 16 horses go postward, the net value to the winner would be $42,650, and a fancy bid of gold plate to the owner. The second horse receives $10,000; third $5000 and fourth $2500. The original nomination cost was $25, and $100 to name a horse through the entries, and an additional $500 to start.

The race will be broadcast coast-to-coast by all three radio chains, and a number of visiting turf writers have into port to witness the race.

Sorteado, the Argentine "triple crown" winner, today served warning on his Santa Anita foes with one of the most sensational trials at the meeting. The flashy C. S. Howard star, prepping for Saturday's mile and an eighth San Antonio Handicap, went a mile and an eighth in 1:50 4-5 yesterday morning.

With Jockey Ralph Neves in the saddle—Neves likes Sorteado better than Kayak II—the Argentine invader started out to chase Limpio, who was spotted a three lengths lead at the start of the trial. Neves had Sorteado under a hard pull for the first seven-eighths, but even at that, he had no trouble running down Limpio at the head of the stretch, drawing out through the stretch without being unduly urged.

Considering the ease with which Sorteado accomplished the trial, the fractions were impressive. The half was turned in :48 2-5; three-quarters in 1:12 4-5; mile in 1:37 4-5.

The Argentine star came out of the trial in fine shape, and considering the fact that he and Kayak II form such a bold threat for the $100,000, it would not be surprising for the C. S. Howard stable to officially declare Seabiscuit out of the big race.

Weak Juries Form Film Theme Today

One of the outstanding dramas of the current movie season opens today at the West Coast under the title of "Let Us Live," dealing with the weaknesses of our present court system. Henry Fonda, star of "Jesse James," has the stellar role. "Sunset Trail," second feature, brings to the screen for the 22nd time, those incomparables, William (Hopalong Cassidy) Boyd, George (Windy) Hayes and Russell (Lucky) Hayden. The story deals with the west of yesteryear when outlaws terrorized the Sacramento valley. Jane Clayton keys the romance in this thrilling western. It was during the filming of this picture that Miss Clayton and Hayden became engaged and shortly after the picture was completed, were married. "Peaceful Neighbors," color cartoon, and world news round out the program.

STUDENTS HERE INTERESTED IN PLANS FOR YOUTH HOSTELS

With announcement that Los Angeles county would soon have youth hostels, more than usual local interest was manifested. Santa Ana junior college students said today. Stanley F. Wilson, former feature editor at the college, traveled last summer in Europe, staying in youth hostels in various countries.

According to Wilson the movement was started in Germany in 1911 by a German professor who believed that young people should have an opportunity to travel, to see their own country and other countries, and to become acquainted with youth of other nations.

Old Castle Used
Wilson said that he had stayed in an old castle in Heidelberg. The castle was used for a hostel because it was the only empty building available.

The hostels use any old building because they do not have much money. Many hostels are composed of old homes, warehouses, and school buildings.

Overnight charge is 25 cents, and the entire project is run on a co-operative basis. The young people make their own beds, wash their own dishes, and assist in other duties, Wilson stated.

Over 4500 Hostels
There now are 4500 hostels in 20 countries, including the United States. Last summer over five million boys and girls of all nations went hosteling, and several thousand traveled through Europe on $1 a day, Wilson revealed.

In 1929 the automotive tax bill for the nation was $849,000,000. By 1937 it had been increased to $1,584,000,000, although the number of motor vehicles had increased approximately 10 per cent.

COUNTY WPA WORK FEATURED IN BOOK

A book of several hundred pages, illustrated with pictures of WPA projects completed or nearly completed in Southern California to date, honors Orange county, it was revealed today.

The book, a copy of which was sent to Santa Ana City Engineer J. L. McBride, by Lieut.-Col. Donald H. Connolly, once an officer in the engineers' corps for WPA but now back on duty in the regular army, presents three pictures of section 1 of the joint outfall sewer construction.

The book, which tells the story of 115 WPA projects of all varieties, in the Southland, gives Orange county the "top position" in the book's "Sanitary Sewer Division," for it presents one of the book's three Orange county pictures in color, one of the few color pictures in the book.

The book was a person's present from Lieut.-Col. Connolly to Santa Ana's engineer.

Scout Movement History Told

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 22.—History of the Scout movement and the value of youth training was discussed by Harrison White of Santa Ana, county Scout executive, at the dinner session of the Newport Harbor 20-30 club Monday night at Wilson's cafe. Scheduled as speakers next week are Sheriff Jess Elliott and Herman Zabel.

A board meeting was announced for March 1 at 7:30 p. m. with George Beddome as host. Plans will be made for a ladies' night of March 6. It was announced that 60 prints had been collected for the civilian identification project. Club representatives will complete fingerprinting of the Balboa Island Boy Scout troop Friday evening. Frank Crocker, Newport Beach fire chief, spoke briefly on pending legislation making for a more sane Fourth of July.

Announcement was made of a change in national officers with the resignation of the president and the elevation of Vice President Abbe Strunk of Dallas, Texas, to the presidency. Donald Strahl of Whittier is the new vice president. Skip Wolfe of Orange, member of the board of directors, and Herb Hill of Santa Ana, district governor.

New Books Given Mesa Library

COSTA MESA, Feb. 22.—A number of new books have been presented to the Costa Mesa public library by W. Carl Spencer according to announcement of the librarian, Miss Sara Conant. In the group are "America Must Act," F. B. Sayre; "The Power of India," Michael Pim; "The Danube Flows Through Fascism," William Van Til; "Changing Asia," E. F. Kisch; "The Nazi Premier," and "The 650."

World Is My Garden," D. G. Fairchild; and "Women in the Soviet East," Frau F. W. Halle. Continuing the series of book reviews planned, the Rev. Julia N. Budlong, minister of the Santa Ana Unitarian church, reviewed Michael Field's "All This and Heaven Too," this week at the library.

An average driver needs 1000 feet of road distance and 10 seconds of time to pass the car ahead traveling at 50 miles an hour. At 30 miles, cars require from 450 to 650 feet.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Two Japanese spy bases have been located in the Caribbean where the American fleet is now maneuvering under Mr. Roosevelt's eye.

Officially they are designated as fish-canning factories. As a front they practice a legitimate fishing business, but they also do some legitimate spying business on the side.

One is on the north shore of Colombia, very near the Panama Canal; the other in Venezuela only a short distance further east. They were secretly established about three years ago, but have only recently become noticeably active.

From these two bases, Jap fishing smacks cruise through the entire Caribbean, dropping their nets wherever their binoculars find something interesting, including, occasionally, fish.

The setup follows a Gilbert and Sullivan opera plot more closely than anything else, but is far more productive and efficient.

It is worked along the same known lines as the Japanese cannery fleets operating from Alaska down to the British naval base at Singapore on the Asiatic coast, and from California down through Central and South America on our side.

The fishing spies use cameras when they can. Their instructions demand pictures wherever possible. They contact the homeland through the Japanese merchant marine with whom they cooperate intimately. Jap merchants' ships take both the canned fish and the uncanned spy products back home, and, when necessary, can use their radios.

For some years, our naval intelligence has considered it singular that when they go out into the Pacific for maneuvers or gunnery practice, Jap fishing sloops decide the fishing is best within sight of the target. There have been occasions when our battleships moved, only to have the Jap fishermen decide to go along too. In fact, it is getting so that our commanders feel lonesome and slighted if they go on an experimental errand without Japanese accompaniment. It looks like the Japs do not consider the errand unimportant.

Latest inside report is the Japs have decided the fishing around Puerto Rico is so good they will have to establish a cannery there. They have about as much chance as establishing one in the Potosi.

However, the system is hard to stop. In Venezuela and Colombia, as elsewhere, the Japanese succeeded in getting some local capital to put up part of the money for the canneries, thereby further disguising their purpose.

Although every Japanese ship and sailor is in the naval reserve, it is practically impossible to make a diplomatic case out of their extracurricular activities.

They may find their new field in the Caribbean somewhat rougher than the Pacific. The American fleet does not intend to let anyone in on its battle formations and there is just a possibility that a stray shell or two may fall erroneously upon any fishing strangers who get too close.

Harry Hopkins is a new man—a man of peace. He has been spending so much time lately burying hatchets there are rumors the space beneath his office floor is filled with folded toothpicks.

Yes sir, he has even made a friendly peace with Senator Gillette in an historic unreported scene. Gillette, the Iowa whom Hopkins tried to purge, went down to see the new commerce secretary with two other Iowa legislators in behalf of a candidate for a job. When the patronage conference was over, Hopkins asked Gillette to remain behind. They talked 20 minutes and wound up by shaking hands.

What they said is his business, but this much is known among their friends: Hopkins opened the subject and asked if there was not some way to end the hostility he started by opposing Gillette in the primary. He was willing to do anything he could, did not seek to avoid responsibility for his action, yet indicated that if he had it to do over again he would not have opposed Gillette. The Senator, for his part, was willing to meet such a frank overture halfway, and the ensuing exchange of amenities made a touching scene.

Those who are envisioning Hopkins' return to his very early homeland as a move for 1940 will not find many here who share their viewpoint . . . or anyone of authority who thinks it can work out that way.

No one in Iowa knew Hopkins came from there, until he made the remark last summer opposing Gillette. While everyone knows it now, he is hardly a Grant Woods picture of an Iowa any more than say, Felix Frankfurter is an Austrian because he was born there.

If Hopkins has a chance to get the Iowa delegation to the next Democratic convention, the politicians here do not know what is going on in the world.

L. A. Speakers Talk Tomorrow

Tim Smith and Dee Martin, both of Los Angeles, will appear at the Lathrop junior high school auditorium at 1120 South Main street, tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. as guest speakers at a meeting of the local branch of the Retirement Life Payments association which proposes a $30-a-week-for-life plan for those over 50.

The speakers will discuss a proposed constitutional amendment which would provide for a California Credit Clearance bank to accept and handle warrants and permit depositors to check against them. The public is invited to attend tomorrow night's meeting.

SURVEY BY WPA OPENS IN S. A.

A survey to review the eligibility of workers certified to the Works Progress administration by the state relief administration, the first of its kind by the WPA, will get under way in Orange county at once, it was announced today by Mrs. Josephine Hearle, head of the complaint and adjustment division of the WPA here.

Of the 2403 men and women on the WPA payrolls in Orange county, 2351 will be affected. A special staff of 12 interviewers, already selected, will make the survey.

The interviewers, who will contact the workers on the various projects, will make no decisions as to the eligibility of the workers, being employed to secure the required information, it was stated.

The survey, which is being made under an amendment to the emergency relief act of 1938, is designed to furnish the WPA with information on the actual needs of its workers, it is stated.

March 23 Deadline
The work of filling out the forms must be completed by March 23.

Mrs. Searle revealed that 57 women who had been dropped from the WPA rolls in January had been reassigned to sewing projects.

"Spite Fence"—To Spite Wind

Mrs. J. G. Pegel, of 1329 Custer street, was making plans today for building a "spite fence" at the north edge of her property—but merely to "spite" the wind, she explained. City councilmen said she may build the fence, to be 10 feet high.

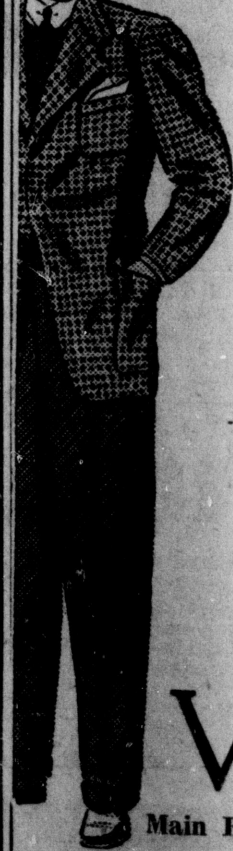

Mrs. Pegel explained that one fence already is in place on the south side of the property, adjacent to a court and is 10 feet high.

The chief purpose of the fence construction on the north side of the Pegel property is for a wind-break since the Pegel property at that side is adjoining vacant lots. Miss Mary Hilyard, owner of the lots, has no objections to the Pegel plan, she said, and no other persons are affected. A. K. Loerch, optometrist, made the request to council on behalf of Mrs. Pegel.

Colorful Parties Given Setting in Munro Home

Making effective use of red, white and blue motif suggested by George Washington's birthday, Mrs. George Munro received half a hundred friends during the course of two parties which she gave last week and yesterday in her home, 1812 North Flower street.

The white walls and finishings of the home lent a charming background for the colorful flowers which decked the rooms for both parties. Mrs. C. P. Boyer provided quantities of quince blossoms, while the stocks and sweet peas used were from Mrs. Munro's home gardens. Luncheon tables were centered with sweet peas in the tri-colors.

Thursday brought the first of the two parties. Assisting on this occasion were Mrs. John Bower, Mrs. Frank Was and Mrs. Hazel Turner. Winning prizes on that occasion were Mrs. C. E. Bressler, Mrs. F. E. Earel and Mrs. E. C. Franson.

Assistants at yesterday's party were Mrs. Adam Zaiser, Mrs. J. C. Sexton and Mrs. C. P. Laxton. Bridge play brought prizes to Mrs. Zaiser, Mrs. Howard Rapp and Mrs. Charles Spicer.

Informal Party Shared By Jaysee Y.W.C.A.

Leaving junior college yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, a caravan of cars bore almost half a hundred pretty coeds, all members of the college Y. W., to the summer home at Sunset Beach, of the Carl H. Hankeys of San Juan Capistrano. Miss Mary Elise Hankey is a member of the Jaysee association, and had the assistance of her parents and of Miss Mabel Whiting, advisor, in receiving guests.

Barbecue tables in the enclosed garden of the home, were called into use for serving the dinner menu. With the dessert course appeared a birthday cake, with which Mrs. Hankey complimented Miss Stella Christ, Y. W. president. The games program of the evening was varied by group singing led by Miss Betty Neff.

Golden Wedding Pair

On February 21, 1889, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Smith, native born Californians, were bridegroom and bride at rites held in Visalia, Tulare county. Yesterday the golden anniversary of that wedding was given happy celebration in the Smith home on Chapman avenue, with scores of friends calling during afternoon and evening at home hours.

Well Known Couple Observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

Enjoying a "Golden Honeymoon" are Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Smith, native born Californians, who today are well started on their way towards the diamond anniversary of their marriage, following the happy observance given their golden anniversary yesterday in the family home, 1705 West Chapman avenue.

Flowers in wide variety were sent by interested friends to garland the home for the event, so it was truly in a floral bower that Mr. and Mrs. Smith received their guests. Golden tones suitable to the anniversary, were uppermost in the blossoms.

There were additional gifts as well, but one of the most valued was the scroll presented by the board of directors of Santa Ana Walnut Growers' association. Mr. Smith is president of the walnut house, and this tribute from his associates, presented by the secretary, Mrs. Andrew Lykke, was especially affecting to him.

Musical Numbers
Music played a large part in the anniversary program. George W. Coissart, a grandson of the celebrants, sang several appropriate songs, including "At Dawn," "Just a Wearyin' For You" and "I Love You Truly." Miss Elinor Buckles was his accompanist. Two request numbers were sung by Mrs. E. Severance, "End of a Perfect Day" and "Waters of Minnetonka." A quartet composed of Mrs. Lykke, Mrs. Charles Van Wyk, A. W. Christie and Orlo W. Householder, sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "I Love You Truly" and "When You and I Were Young."

With Mrs. William Beinberger at the piano. Other musical numbers included the solo "Some Day My Prince Will Come" by Miss Jane Severance, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. E. Severance, and accordion solos by Richard Smith, grandson of the wedding celebrants. While wedding cake and refreshments were served throughout the at home hours, the special dinner event of the anniversary was shared by the family circle with a little group of intimate friends. These were Messrs. and Mesdames W. A. Hively and J. H. Brown, Mesdames Margaret Gingui, Maud Austin, Nellie Brenton, Maud Wright, Maud LeGaye, the Misses Hattie White, M. H. Smith, Ida M. Spencer, Messrs. Ben F. Wright and Richard Smith.

Pioneer History
The family history of Mr. and Mrs. Smith is an interesting one, quite typical of pioneer days in the state. Mr. Smith was born in Calaveras county in 1866 to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith, who had arrived in the state after coming by way of the Isthmus of Panama in 1858. J. C. Smith and Miss Emily Nelson were married in Southern Illinois in 1853. Mrs. Smith's parents came entirely different routes. Her father, Nathaniel B. Berkshire, came from Indiana around the Horn to Mexico, in the early 50's, later coming to San Jose, Calif., where he was married in 1856 to Miss Martha Tinkham, who as a young girl, accompanied her parents from Iowa in their trip by ox team across the plains. Many reminiscences of early days were related during the reception, and friends in other letters and telegrams. One telegram was from a granddaughter of the celebrants, Mrs. Harold Moon (Alice Coissart) who is on the Virginia coast where her young husband is with the service. Other members of the immediate family circle are the son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh G. Smith of the family home, and their son Richard, and a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Coissart of Orange Park Acres and their son George. Mrs. Coissart was Miss Esther Smith.

Plans Are Discussed By Auxiliary Drill Team
Several events of the near future came up for discussion at the latest meeting of Legion Auxiliary Drill team, 19 of whom were welcomed to the R. H. Sandon home, 1410 West Washington avenue, with Tona Sandon and Edith Bouldin as co-hostesses. One of the anticipated affairs is the installation of officers of the new Midway Legion Auxiliary unit, on the night of March 6, with the drill team to present the ritualistic work. On Saturday night, March 4, the drill team will stage another of its successful dances, which have been attracting so many friends to Garden Grove Women's clubhouse. On this coming occasion however, the party scene will be changed, and the dance will be held in the Westminster Women's clubhouse. The committee in charge of dance plans is composed of Lucille Sullivan, Geneva Welch, Gladys Young and Anne Leimer. They have announced that dancing will begin at the usual hour of 9:30 o'clock, and that the nominal admission price includes refreshments.

Double-faced fender lamps indicating the direction of the driver's next turn to both approaching and following cars are now being introduced to motorists.

Father and Daughter Are Birthday Celebrants

Sunday was made a happy day in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Mateer, 216 Cypress avenue, where a gala birthday dinner party complimented Mrs. Mateer's father and sister, F. P. Nickey, one of the city's veteran hardware merchants, and Mrs. Genevieve Spencer of Eagle Rock, both of whom share the same anniversary on February 20.

Valentine hearts seemed a highly appropriate decorative motif. They not only dotted the damask spread table, but hung in a scarlet shower from the chandelier to mingle with the fragile scarlet petals of Japanese quince arranged as a centerpiece. Small valentines, each with an appropriate inscription, served as place cards.

Mr. Nickey's third daughter, Mrs. Charles Bowler of Los Angeles, who has been here for several weeks, completed the happy family party with him and Mrs. Nickey, Mrs. Spencer, the hosts. Mr. and Mrs. Mateer, and the Paul Wallaces and their young son Billy, great-grandson of F. P. Nickey.

Bible Section Members Hold Varied Program

Twenty members of Woman's club met Monday in the home of Mrs. P. R. Arnold, 623 East Chestnut street for luncheon and a program highlighted by a Bible pageant on "The Story of Queen Esther."

Shades were drawn and the rooms were lighted with candles for the luncheon interval. Following a short business meeting in charge of Mrs. M. O. Wells, Mrs. George Gould announced plans for the district essay contest on "Why I Should Know My Bible." Contributions of not more than 500 words in length should be sent to Mrs. Gould by March 1. Mrs. Margaret Church, a guest of the section, read an original poem "A Bit of Blue." Mrs. William Whitehead's paper on "Solomon and the Glory of the Monarchy" was based on one of Dr. John Lord's books. Mrs. J. D. Watkins gave a short talk on "The Bible Is True," comparing facts in the Bible with ancient history. Mrs. Wells told the story of Jezebel. Mrs. Charles Clarke commented on the clay tablets in a recent lecture on the Bible, and in addition, read a paper on "Religious History and Its Maker." In the day's pageant, Mrs. J. D. Watkins took the part of Esther. Others in the cast were Mrs. Leona Talbot, Mrs. E. A. Elwell, Miss Mary Oakes and Mrs. Charles Oakes. Mrs. G. F. Kleaver was a guest.

Next meeting will be held March 20 in the home of Mrs. J. E. Braden, 2031 North Ross street following luncheon in a downtown cafe.

Section Members Hear Review by Mrs. Cloyes

Thirty members and guests of Junior Ebell Second Book Review section assembled last night in the home of Mrs. Walter Bacon, 1006 North Lowell street, for a program given by Mrs. Edith Cloyes. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Bacon were Miss Hazel Bergee, Mrs. Emmett Thompson and Mrs. Robert U. Smith.

Mrs. Cloyes gave a fast-moving review of that much discussed book, "The Sword in the Stone" by T. H. White. A fantasy filled with the most unusual happenings, the story was given additional charm by the speaker's interpretation.

Miss Alberta Greene, leader, conducted an opening session during which plans were made to raise funds for the section's contribution to Junior Ebell society. The hostess foursome served cherry tarts and tea as a concluding feature.

Section guests included Mrs. Cloyes, Miss Florence Turner, Miss Roma Mayes, Miss Elizabeth Downie, Miss Harriet Fowler and Miss Marian Clark.

Oriental Entertainment Described for Section

Mrs. Calvin Flint provided a wealth of program material as well as several lovely Oriental costumes to add to the enjoyment of the latest meeting of Junior Ebell Travel section in the home of Mrs. Arthur Wade, 923 North Olive street.

The hostesses, Mrs. Wade, Mrs. Quentin Matzen and Mrs. Ray Trevorrow, were attired in three of the most attractive of the costumes which Mrs. Flint has collected during her European travels. Mrs. Matzen wore a Korean bridegroom costume, and Mrs. Flint, the bride's costume.

Forms of amusement of entertainment in the Orient were discussed by the speaker, who displayed a number of musical instruments from her collection. Mrs. Kramer Rohlfisch at the piano, played Oriental music, then contrasted it with modern selections.

Chinese lilies and pink godelias brightened the tea table from which refreshments were served.

Post-Nuptial Shower Marks Sorority Meeting

Mrs. Robert Holmes, who was Miss Betty Marston preceding her marriage Saturday, was showered with bridal gifts last night at a meeting of Sigma Tau Psi sorority in the home of the president, Miss Virginia Graves, 2028 Greenleaf street.

Announcement of the marriage was made when the bride turned in her application for an inactive membership in the chapter, signing the card "Betty Marston Holmes." Until this notice was read, the majority of the group had been unaware that the marriage of the young couple already had taken place.

The former Miss Marston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Marston, 848 North Birch street, was bride at quiet rites Saturday evening in First Christian church. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes will reside in Glendale.

Hostesses at last night event were Miss Graves and Miss Charlotte Barker. Following a short business meeting in charge of the president, gifts were showered upon the honoree. For their dining room table centerpiece, Miss Graves and Miss Barker had the privilege of using the top layer of the confection created for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth E. Seales and Edgar E. Pankey. Smaller tables were decorated with miniature bride and bridegroom figures. Eighteen members shared the hospitality.

Poetry and Drama Groups Present Club Program

Designed to show some of the activities of sections within the organization of Woman's club of Santa Ana, yesterday afternoon's general meeting in Veterans hall was highlighted by a clever play, "The Roseville Highbrows," a satire on club events.

Divided into two features, the entertainment was presided over by Miss Blanche Seely. Poetry section members read original poems after which Drama section presented the entertaining play by Mrs. M. M. Collins, leader of the opening event. Poems read were "My Choice," by Mrs. J. E. Braden; "Our Day," Mrs. M. O. Wells; "Longing," and "Aspirations," by Mrs. P. R. Arnold; "Autumn Tapestries," Mrs. E. G. Warner; "Mermaid," Miss Seely; "Nightfall on the Mountain Top," Mrs. Frank Jones; "Reverie," Mrs. Jacob Bohlander; "The Old House," Mrs. Margaret Church; "Her Solitude" and "Her Temple," Mrs. Collins.

Poetry section climaxed its program with a short interval dedicated to the memory of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. Mrs. Braden read an epitaph on Washington; and Miss Seely read Markham's poem "Lincoln, the Man of the Hour."

Mrs. A. C. Keck directed "The Roseville Highbrows" by Noella Coward for Drama section, whose leader is Mrs. William Denniss. In the cast were Mrs. Denniss and Mesdames Glenn Hulse, J. D. Watkins, Glenn Cole, M. O. Wells, L. G. Holman, W. L. Harbert, H. R. Jones, E. M. Waycott, E. A. Elwell and H. M. Varner.

Private Duty Nurses Stage Original Program

One of the most entertaining programs every staged by members of District 16, State Nurses' association, was that held late the past week in the auditorium of the Sisters of St. Joseph in Orange, where little theater conveniences made it possible to present a pageant of "Women of Destiny."

The private duty section planned this program with the assistance of staff nurses at St. Joseph hospital under leadership of Sister Carmelita. The theme song for the living pictures was played by Mrs. Mary Tanner, and Mrs. L. L. Beeman read the sketches descriptive of each with Miss Marjorie Tasker assisting. Others providing musical numbers were C. Brown, M. Lynch and M. Bartsok.

The first half dozen portrayals were Miss Floretta Harmon as "Queen Isabella," Mrs. Violet Niehaus as "Pocahontas," Miss Emma Steeve as "Pilgrim Woman," Miss Theresa Haugness as "Colonial Dame," Mrs. Alice Theal as "Abraham Lincoln's Mother" and Miss Dewey Neumeyer as "Florence Nightingale."

In the intermission, the prize for the best written sketch was presented to Mrs. Hazel G. Paul, who wrote that on "Clara Barton," portrayed by Mrs. Loretta Kelly. This was a feature of the second part of the program in which other "Women of Destiny" were "Mother St. John" by C. Brown; "School Teacher From the North" by Lydia Neumeyer; "Immigrant Woman" by Mrs. Edna Woods and "Mother and Babe" by Mrs. Olive Clark and her infant daughter.

After singing "America" the group sought the recreation room for a friendly social hour during which refreshments were served by the Sisters of St. Joseph. Out of town guests were Miss Mabel Read of Calexico, and Miss Stella Freidinger R. N. of San Francisco, assistant director at the state nurses' association headquarters.

HAZEL SAWYER IS MARRIED SATURDAY

ANAHEIM, Feb. 22.—Advancing their wedding plans by a week, Miss Hazel Sawyer and Eugene Washburn were married Saturday evening in a formal ceremony at the Nazarene church, with the Rev. J. P. Wear reading the rites and the Rev. F. Sawtelle of Placentia pronouncing the benediction.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. James Hord of Anaheim, wore a slim gown of ivory satin, with a tulle veil several yards in length extending out over a long train. Gardenias, rosebuds, and orchids fashioned her shower bouquet. She was given in marriage by her brother, Ernest Sawyer.

Her attendants were lovely in pastel taffetas, led off by Mrs. Howard Miller as matron of honor in pale blue, carrying pink rosebuds and wearing a single rose in her hair. Bridesmaids were Miss Ellen Buelke in delicate yellow, Mrs. Jesse Dohm in shell pink, and Miss Neva Doane in orchid, each carrying a nosegay of sweetpeas and stock.

Mr. Washburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Washburn of Placentia, was attended by his brother, Robert, and ushers were Donald Warner, Wayne Loomis, and Robert Welch. His sister, Miss Lucille Washburn, sat at the piano, and Miss Charlotte Doane was soloist.

More than 150 guests were present at the rites and attended a reception in the church hall later. In the receiving line were the bride's sister, Mrs. Leo Gish, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Sawyer and her cousin, Mrs. Miles W. Ficus. Harold Welch was soloist during the reception.

Especially striking on the lace spread table was the wedding cake, made to simulate a large opened Bible. Its edges were realistically frosted in gold, and golden letters on the widespread pages made entry of the marriage record. Mrs. Gish assisted her sister in serving this.

The newlyweds, after a brief honeymoon, are at home at 214 East Wilhelmina street, Anaheim. The groom is connected with the Union Oil company.

REVIVES EGYPTIAN TURQUOISE COLOR

FULLERTON, Feb. 22.—Prof. Glen Lukens, former Fullerton district junior college and union high school teacher from 1924 to 1932 and now instructor of the University of Southern California school of architecture and fine arts, has revived the 4000-year-old Egyptian art of making imitations of turquoise gems.

Professor Lukens has been doing research work for six years including studies of translations of ancient manuscripts in the British museum of London, England.

Compared side by side with an ancient Egyptian piece the newly created imitation turquoise is practically identical. It is considered among artists as the most intensive blue known and a vase of the coloring will stand out even in a darkened room.

By using a particular type of alkali found only in Death Valley and the Panamint range, Prof. Lukens mixes this with a type of clay containing copper to form a paste. Shaped into forms for jewelry and properly baked, the copper is brought to the surface or wicked in glazing to form the turquoise blue which was symbolic of the Persians and Egyptians centuries ago.

In addition to contributing to many outstanding exhibits of the country Prof. Lukens was awarded first prize in the Fifth National Ceramic held in the Syracuse Museum of Fine Arts several years ago.

PAST PRESIDENTS OF P.-T. A.
HONORED ON FOUNDERS' DAY

ORANGE, Feb. 22.—Founder's day was celebrated at West Orange P.-T. A. Tuesday afternoon, when past presidents were honored, and Dr. Hiram Curry of Santa Ana gave a talk on correcting the defects in children's speech, and personality development in public speaking.

Dr. Curry said that speaking well is of immeasurable importance to a child. "Speaking brings the other faculties into focus and is closely connected with general personality. As speech is developed, it can be improved. Parents should see an example of good speech for their children," he declared.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ben Brubaker, program chairman. Third grade pupils under the direction of Mrs. Vesta C. Tracy gave readings, and Richard Smith gave an accordion solo. Fourth and fifth grade pupils also gave readings under the direction of Miss Helen Estock.

Past presidents in attendance included Mrs. Mason Squires, the founder of West Orange P.-T. A. 15 years ago. Others present were Mesdames August Pestolesi, Carl Sutton, Oliver Wickersheim, Ernest Gommel and C. C. Hatch. All were presented with gardenia corsages.

Mrs. Ben Brubaker conducted the candle lighting ceremonies in which blue and gold tapers were used. The tea table was centered with yellow joughins in a blue pottery bowl. Tea hostesses were Mesdames E. P. Ehlen, Ronald Reed, Finley Smalley, Robert Steel, August Pestolesi, Mrs. Squires poured.

Mrs. Marian Bickford presided over the business meeting, during which it was announced that a change in place had been made for the benefit party March 3. It will be held at the West Orange school. The nominating committee was named, consisting of Mesdames August Pestolesi, Lotta Brandon, Ben Brubaker, Jack Lampert and Henry C. Meehan.

Future Planning
Is Advocated

ORANGE, Feb. 22.—City planning should be done in preparation for the year of 2000, declared Dr. Remsen D. Bird, president of Occidental college, in speaking before the Men's club last night at a dinner meeting at Trinity Episcopal church. The date had been scheduled as "Occidental night" and Don Smiley, a graduate of the college and rancher of this vicinity, acted as program chairman. Music was furnished by a young men's quartet from Occidental who sang college songs as well as Negro spirituals.

Dr. Bird, who is a former professor of Princeton university, is a member of the city planning commission of Los Angeles and he spoke from the subject "Composing a City," speaking with especial reference to Los Angeles. Dr. Bird, it was stated, had been entrusted with working out a master plan for planning for that municipality.

Gordon X. Richmond presided and during the evening E. E. Campbell, chairman of the program committee for the year, gave each of the 150 men present a card to fill out stating preferences for the type of program for club meeting held the third Monday of the month.

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, Feb. 22.—Mrs. O. A. Clifford will be hostess Friday afternoon to members of the U. S. A. club at her home, 520 East Palmyra avenue.

C. I. Thomas, superintendent of Orange grammar schools, left last night by rail for Cleveland, Ohio, where he will attend the national convention of school superintendents. He will be gone for two weeks. A Haven Smith, principal of Orange Union High school, left late last week for the same convention.

E. M. Chapman received an interesting letter from his wife who is visiting her sister, Mrs. May Fenn and other relatives at Laramie, Wyo., yesterday. In the letter Mrs. Chapman tells of attending a basketball game and being caught in a blizzard on the way home. The car in which Mrs. Chapman was riding was stalled in a snow drift, but, she writes, the heaters with which all the cars are equipped, prevented those in the car from suffering from cold. Mrs. Chapman wrote that Wyoming newspapers carried stories of the recent wind here, stating that all of the oranges were blown from the trees and that half of Pasadena and Hollywood were burned.

Stop Signs For
Orange Ordered

ORANGE, Feb. 22.—Fire insurance on the city hall was awarded to J. W. Powell when several bids were opened yesterday at a meeting of the Orange city council. Powell made a bid of $211.50 for a three year period. A number of bids were submitted on the bathhouse at the city park with a valuation set at $10,000, the clubhouse with value set at $1000 and on the park restrooms with value set at $500. These bids were taken under consideration.

A request made by E. E. Campbell representing the Orange Red Cross chapter, requested the use of the city plunge two weeks in July for swimming and life saving classes. Mayor A. C. Boice stated that the classes held last year by the Red Cross had stimulated attendance at the plunge at their close.

Sheldon Swenson, Y. M. C. A. secretary, asked that the soft ball league made up of eight teams from Orange churches be allowed the use of the park two nights each week during the summer months. The request was tabled until later in the spring when a baseball schedule is to be made out.

Stop signs and means of preventing accidents in the city came up for a long discussion and stop signs were ordered placed at Cambridge street and Palmyra avenue on Cambridge street. Councilman William Matt suggested placing another policeman on duty to watch the boulevard stops but a decision was reached to employ the regular force for a time and if the need arises to add another officer.

Persons failing to make boulevard stops are to be summarily dealt with, according to action taken and no exceptions are to be made.

Mayor A. C. Boice gave a report of progress on the $134,000 Tustin street storm drain where 275 men are working. The drain is 16 per cent completed and will be finished, it is expected by September 1. The project is being built through WPA and will be a mile and a half long.

Plans were made to repair a cement mixer to use on the drain. Good soil excavated is being hauled to the city park.

New Overland Has Distinctive Style
And Riding Ease

TOLEDO, Ohio, Feb. 22.—Interiors of all new Overland passenger cars reveal an interesting development of modern contributions to luxury and riding comfort.

Both front and rear compartments in the sedan models have generous seating dimensions and the front seat is 50 inches wide affording the same amount of room as three average theater seats.

Chrome Trim
Leg room and head room in the front compartment is larger than in the lower priced brackets and there is generous room in the rear compartment for all occupants.

The upholstery panel inserts in the doors are bordered with chrome-nickel trim, and with the interior door metal framing the panels to prevent scuffing.

A modern type of upholstery design with a stitched beading accentuates the easy chair contour of the seats and offers a distinctive and entirely pleasing styling. The instrument panel features a new and completely modern color trimming with an attractive arrangement of the instrument group in the center of the panel where all engine indicators are easily seen by the driver.

A wide windshield and wide windows in the doors afford full road vision with a view of the road close to the car adding to the convenience of the driver.

Motorists Carry
Huge Tax Load

Motor vehicle user taxes amount to $1,585,000,000.

The motor vehicle user is now carrying 14 per cent of the total tax burden derived from federal, state and local sources, according to a recent survey.

Employment in automobile body and parts factories averaged about 337,000 last year, compared with 517,000 in 1937, when the industry was operating at near-record level.

Wages, in terms of the average weekly pay roll, totaled $9,200,000 last year, compared with $15,500,000 in 1937.

BETTER VISION
IN 1939 BUICK

Vastly improved vision for the driver and passengers mark the new Buick, W. R. (Stormy) Gordon, local Buick dealer said today.

"Diameters of the steel pillars at either side of the windshield, in the center and at the rear have been reduced in size, bringing into view many objects heretofore obscured from the field of vision," Gordon said.

"The area of the windshield of the Special, or 40 series, the smallest car in the Buick line, is 30 per cent greater than in the corresponding 1938 model. The size of the window and ventpane openings in the front doors of the 4-door sedan show a combined increase of nearly 12 per cent. The back window has been enlarged by approximately 15 per cent, and the division post eliminated, with the result that vision at the rear is even greater than the increase in glass area would indicate.

"The smallest increase is in the window of the rear door, a matter of a little over 2 per cent. The reason for this is self-evident, however, when it is known that the shape of the door has been changed, and that the rear quarter window has been increased in size by some 56 per cent.

The tremendous improvement in bodily comfort brought about by the larger window openings in the new Buicks is truly remarkable. The effect is much like that of riding along in the open. Gone completely is that cramped feeling, and the tendency of a person after a few futile attempts to say, "Yes, I see it," without stirring from his position when some one points out an interesting feature of the landscape. One can now sit back in his seat and really enjoy the ride, for he can see passing objects without difficulty.

But of perhaps more importance is the safety aspect. Police officials state that a car with its brakes in good order should be able to stop within 40 feet when traveling at 30 m.p.h.

Spring's on the way! Get out and meet it!

Easy on the eye—easy to buy—on General Motors terms!

NO, we're not trying to beat the gun—we'll be seeing quite a lot of winter before the spring buds burst.

But spring always has come—and with it a sudden itch to get out and see the awakening world. And also—all too often—the discovery that to get the new car you want, you've got to wait!

So what? So take steps now—to meet spring halfway!

Take steps to retire that slow-motion number you're driving—and replace it with a Buick bursting with newness and get-up-and-git.

Put a Dynaflex straight-eight under your toe to do battle with tough winter going—get the comfort of BuCoil Springing to float you smoothly over rough and rutted roads.

Get a new outlook for winter horizons or for spotting the first flush of green on the meadows in Buick's "visibility unlimited"—as much as 412 more square inches of safety plate glass to see through.

Then consider also: Your present car is worth less each day as a trade-in. The risk of repair bills grows steadily greater. Old rubber's dangerous, tired batteries a bore—and a bright new Buick is sound and supple all through.

Besides—Buick's prices are lower than a year ago, lower than you'd expect, lower than some sizes!

So why not drop in to talk it over? You'll probably want to get your Buick while the getting's good!

CHEVROLET HAS SALES INCREASE

Chevrolet sold 51,966 new cars and trucks at retail during the month of January, continuing the sales advance that has been apparent since the introduction of the 1939 models and realizing an increase of 12,566 units over complete sales records of January of last year, it was revealed yesterday by W. E. Holler, general sales manager of the company.

In the same month, Holler announced, Chevrolet dealers sold 114,375 used cars, or 8925 more than in January, 1938. Combined new and used-car sales for the month were 166,341 units, as compared with 144,919 a year ago.

For the past three months, Holler pointed out, there has been a steady rise in the monthly percentage of increase over sales for corresponding periods in the 1938 model year.

Fishing Is Good On Lake Mead

Here's a tip for fresh-water fishermen who are sitting around waiting for the opening of trout season on May 1. The bass are biting on Lake Mead.

This is the report of an Automobile Club of Southern California outing bureau scout party which recently returned from a successful fishing expedition. The average fish runs about three pounds with six and eight pounders not uncommon.

Overnight accommodations are available at Boulder City and boats and equipment can be rented at the boat landing. A $3 Nevada license is required to fish on Lake Mead.

Scenic Coast Route Open

Scenic San Simeon-Carmel Highway, of State Route 1, running from its junction with U.S. 101 at San Luis Obispo north by way of Morro Bay and San Simeon to the Monterey Peninsula is open throughout.

During stormy weather slides may come in on this road but they are speedily cleared by highway maintenance crews and the slide areas are all well signed.

Measured Mile Checks Speedometer

It's fun to check your speedometer through a Gilmore Measured Mile when the checkered finish flag is wielded by a pretty Miss. Pictured above is the driver of a new de luxe Ford V8 sedan which checked perfectly as it was clocked through an accurately surveyed mile located on U. S. Highway 70-99, the first of a series of attractively signed miles to be set up by the traffic department of the Gilmore Oil Company for the convenience of motorists who may wish to check the correctness of their speedometers.

Plan Campaign For Tax Fight

Organized motorists in Pennsylvania plan to campaign for a constitutional amendment to prevent diversion of highway funds, the Automobile Club of Southern California learned yesterday. It would be similar to that enacted in this state last November.

Keystone motorists are up in arms over the diversion of $26,000,000 from highway funds which has just been "borrowed" by the state assembly to carry on fiscal affairs of the state. The borrowing of the huge sum was authorized despite strong protests by motoring organizations.

Encouraged by the overwhelming affirmative vote given the anti-diversion amendment sponsored by the Automobile Club of Southern California last year, the Pittsburgh Motor club will fight for adoption of a similar amendment at the current legislative session.

MEEHAN GIVES SPEED ADVICE

Don't guess how fast you are traveling, motorists!

Keep your eye on the speedometer, and know how rapidly you are hurtling through the day or night.

This is the sound advice of Capt. Henry C. Meehan, head of the Orange county unit of the California Highway patrol.

Speed Crash Factor
"Many motorists travel faster than they really believe," Captain Meehan said today, "and tests have shown in many instances that crashes are caused by this ignorance of the true speed of their vehicle."

"While speed alone is not responsible for accidents, it is a proved fact that the greater the speed, the more serious the injury. In most instances where death occurs as the result of a motor accident, speed is the greatest contributing factor.

"If you are in doubt as to your speedometer, have it checked for accuracy. Then drive within the speed limits posted on streets and highways, and you will not only save yourself injury or possible death, but remove yourself as a hazard to others."

"Especially attention should be given to night driving speeds. Too many persons drive as fast at night as in the daytime which is a dangerous practice. Night driving should be limited to the illumination of headlights which engineers declare are built to make driving fairly safe at a speed not greater than 45 miles per hour."

OFFICIALS MAY AMEND MOTOR REGISTRATION

Bills designed to provide for registration of motor vehicles on dates other than Jan. 1, a requirement already in effect in more than 30 states, have been introduced in 12 state legislatures now in session. They include Alabama, Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Mexico, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Wisconsin. Several bills, some calling for an April 1 registration date, others for July 1, have been introduced in New York.

Average $15
Officials of states which adopted the deferred registration plan some years ago have reported satisfaction with the later date, and the idea has had the wholehearted support of retail merchants, who enjoy an increased holiday business. In the average state millions of dollars which otherwise would have been frozen into registration fees around Jan. 1, now are released for holiday trade.

The average registration fee throughout the country is around $15, or nearly one-half as costly as the average motorist's annual gasoline tax bill. The potential expenditures of some $100,000,000 in retail trade by the motor vehicle owner in the states which do not defer registration dates represent a sizable and profitable improvement in holiday trade.

Later Date Popular
State officials are pleased by the larger immediate re-registration of motor vehicles on April 1, the more popular later date. The increase in state revenues thus made possible is enhanced by the increased income from gasoline taxes during January, February and March. In the old days about one-fifth of all motor vehicles were idle during the first quarter of the year, thus reducing state gasoline tax revenues substantially.

Goodrich company, Akron, Ohio, a group of Goodrich tire executives recently concluded a series of sales conferences at the Goodrich Pacific plant. In a talk before one of the conferences, O'Connor predicted that five million tires more than last year will be required to supply the public demand.

Automotive dealers also are supporting the later date, which they find to be of aid in promoting sales at automobile shows now held in the fall of the year.

PEDESTRIAN PERIL

One out of every two persons killed in traffic is a pedestrian, according to the safety department of the National Automobile club. Regardless of who is to blame for these accidents, pedestrians can help protect themselves by crossing only at intersections and with traffic signals. Jaywalkers save little time.

COUNTIES RECEIVE REGISTRATION FEES

Governor Culbert L. Olson announced that the department of motor vehicles has forwarded to the counties of the state their apportionment of the vehicle registration fees collected during 1938. This year's amount to be distributed to the various counties totals $3,626,435. A like amount is transferred to the department of public works, highway division.

The apportionment is based upon the number of motor vehicles registered in the respective counties. Los Angeles county leads with 1,088,143 registrations and receives the largest fee return $1,487,687.

Governor Olson pointed out that during 1938 there were 2,663,733 vehicles registered in the state, compared with 2,627,640 in 1937, an increase of 36,093. At the same time the total returns to the counties were $334,713 less than during 1937.

The governor said this loss in revenue was brought about by a

Vacationists Spend Billions

When the average American motorist sets out with his family for his vacation he is prepared to take the rubber band off his bankroll, according to the outing bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Last year a national survey revealed that four and one-half billion dollars was spent on automobile vacation trips, an increase of 10 per cent over 1937 despite a poorer business year.

change in the registration system last year. Heretofore, trucks and trailers have been registered as one vehicle, based on length, weight and tonnage, but last year each was registered separately at lower fees, greatly reducing the net returns.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

The "debunking" of national heroes is quite a fad in this realistic age. Best-selling biographies dispel the fleecy clouds of idealism in which we wrap our historic idols, and reveal them as fallible beings instead of paragons of all the virtues.

Yet that fad—like most "modern" fads—is as old as history itself. In fact, as every schoolboy knows, one of the severest debunkers of George Washington, whose birthday we celebrate today, was his great contemporary, Thomas Jefferson, who wrote of him: "His mind . . . was slow in operation, being little aided by invention or imagination . . . His temper was naturally irritable . . . his colloquial talents were not above mediocrity, possessing neither copiousness of ideas or fluency of words . . ."

That part of Jefferson's estimate of Washington seems to "debunk" the Father of his Country to the stature of the most common among us—with ordinary faults and petty weaknesses. How, then, was Washington so great? Jefferson also wrote of him: "His integrity was the most pure, his justice the most inflexible I have ever known; no motives of interest or consanguinity, of friendship or hatred being able to bias his decision. He was, indeed, a wise, a good, and a great man."

That penetrating conclusion discloses the mountain of unassailable character upon which Washington's greatness rests. With "integrity most pure, justice most inflexible," it matters little that Washington was "slow in thought, unready in speech, at times short-tempered." His possession of minor, human shortcomings simply makes George Washington the more lovable to a grateful posterity. "Debunking" but enhances true greatness.

SPARE THAT TREE

Growing public alarm at the swelling flood of tax bills for relief purposes, plus continued deficits that must be paid later at compound interest, has caused wide discussion of two proposals for relief of the tax strain which will confront the re-convened California legislature.

One, conceived with a view to purging the relief rolls of chiselers and professional paupers, would require that names of all persons on the rolls be published periodically in their home counties. The other, purporting to ease the direct tax pressure, would legalize financing of relief in part from the huge excess fund in the unemployment reserve treasury.

On the latter plan, M. F. Small, veteran editor of the Feather River Bulletin, comments significantly: "The Unemployment Reserves Commission has a balance of $110,000,000, and this will grow to $165,000,000 by the end of 1939 . . . As there appears to be a tendency to levy here a tax greater than that which is necessary, a logical correlation of the relief and unemployment problems would suggest financing relief from the excess fund . . . This may be the 'out' for the legislature, and for the state relief administration, when the final decision has to be faced next month."

Indeed, it "has to be faced." This month over 307,000 persons—an increase of 20 per cent over the corresponding period of 1938—are receiving cash doles. And the ceaselessly mounting total tax bill already is taking nearly 25 per cent of the combined income of privately-employed workmen, farmers, business and professional men.

Whether the answer to the relief problem lies in any proposal yet made, the legislators must decide. But growing and undeniable in the public mind is the conviction that real recovery, and welfare of those on relief as well as those who pay for relief, rests upon a pruning of the tangled vines of taxation that threaten to strangle and suffocate the tree of industrial progress. The demand is that the tree be spared.

ARE YOU INCOMPETENT?

How would you like a group of officeholders to tell you who can and who cannot act as administrator or executor of your estate?

You wouldn't like it—but under legislative measures proposed in Oregon, that is exactly what would happen to Oregon citizens.

The proposals in Oregon illustrate the political trend to restrict freedom of action of private citizens. Growing political control of the individual is like an epidemic—it spreads from state to state, and from nation to nation.

If the public (you and I) were fully awake to this insidious undermining of personal rights in our own country, we would boot elected trouble-makers high, wide and handsome.

The Oregon situation is just an incident in the growing trend. The public must awaken to the danger it faces, if it wishes to retain even a semblance of the liberty and individual choice of action that our citizens may have enjoyed in the past.

THEY CALL IT RELIEF

(Chicago Tribune)

There was nothing very surprising about the recent revelation regarding the administration of relief in northern Indiana. Wherever a thoroughgoing inquiry into the handling of the relief funds is undertaken, there the same story is told. The details vary. Sometimes graft and corruption are the predominant elements; sometimes mismanagement. But the result is always the same. Millions are wasted; no serious effort is made to rehabilitate the unfortunate; favoritism is practiced at the expense of the taxpayers and those who really deserve help; the reigning politicians and the ne'er-do-wells are benefited at the expense of every one else.

If there was anything out of the ordinary about the Indiana revelations, it was the source from which they came. The commission of investigation was appointed by Gov. Townsend, a New Deal Democrat. The commission's staff, after working a month in Lake county, reported that 63 per cent of the relievers in Hobart township were gold-bricks who never should have been on the rolls. In North township (Hammond) and Calumet township (Gary) 43 per cent of those receiving public charity were not entitled to it.

The commission found, also, that food, clothing,

RELIEF FIGURES

The Los Angeles Times editorially says that on February 1, the number of unemployed receiving the cash dole from the State Relief Administration stood at the all-time high of 307,303. In one week, it had increased five per cent. In one month, that is, since January 1, it had increased 25 per cent and that in the same period, the number of persons supported by the Federal WPA increased 22 per cent.

These figures should cause any person, who is self-reliant and wants to make his own way in the world, realize that we have started something that is very difficult, indeed, to stop. We have spread the belief that people are not responsible for their own sustenance, that they have a right to be fed and clothed entirely at the expense of others, and that they have the right to do the selecting of what the support should be. Of course, any thinking person knows that this cannot go on. When people need not work, unless they can get the rewards to which they themselves think they are entitled, or to which some dreamer says they are entitled, then that nation, so long as the people believe this, is doomed to a decline in living standards. The load becomes so heavy that it discourages those people who are trying to support themselves and are not living as well as those whom the government is helping. Then, these people added, steps the notch up so that more and more people are added to relief.

This condition is a result largely of the Federated Council of Churches, preaching a doctrine that wages need not be on the competitive basis and of the Republican and Democratic parties teaching that relief need not be local but that it is the duty of the Federal and State government to furnish jobs and sustenance.

It is truly a question of re-educating the people.

MEANING OF CONSERVATIVE AND LIBERAL

Since we see the word "liberal" used so often nowadays and in a manner entirely different from what it originally meant—namely, the liberty of the individual to make decisions with the least possible coercion from the church or the state—it might be well to really form an accurate opinion as to what is meant when the word is used.

The nearest conclusion that I can draw, as to what those people who so generally use the word "liberal" mean when they use it, is that they are liberal in their promises. They are so liberal in their promises as to what they can do and accomplish, that they promise much more than they deliver. They are just the opposite from a conservative, who is conscientious in what he promises he will do. And he usually tries to deliver more than he promises. I think it is a safe conclusion to say that the people who use the word "liberal" now, are people who are very liberal in their promises and very careless in the fulfillment of them.

I have much more respect for the man who is conservative in his promises and delivers more than he promises than I have for the big promiser—the modern liberals—who cannot explain how they will deliver what they promise and invariably never deliver. Beware of the modern "liberal," because he is a profuse promiser and a very limited performer.

ONLY ARGUMENT FOR AN INCOME TAX

The only argument of which I can think for an income tax, is that it prevents any man from losing a lot of wealth by mismanagement, on which he does not, under the present taxing system, pay his full share to the government for his mistakes in using wealth.

This part of the income tax is splendid and if anybody could ever devise a way whereby the part of an income tax that taxes a man on the income that he had which he was going to lose later on by bad judgment, it would be a splendid tax. But the trouble with the income tax is that it not only taxes a man who loses his wealth by bad judgment, but it taxes a man who uses his wealth in a manner that reduces the cost of living. And the cost of living, in the final analysis, is the fraction of your life it takes to get the things you want and need.

This is the great objection to the income tax, because it treats the man who wastes wealth by bad management, just the same as it treats the man with the best judgment and the best character, who is a great benefactor to humanity.

and fuel were purchased from a few favored dealers who were permitted to over charge for their goods. Likewise, medical care was entrusted to a few favored doctors. Nineteen relief doctors made an average of $10,000 a year out of relief practice, the low man getting $5,000 and the high man no less than $30,000.

"AMERICA AND THE NEW FRONTIER"

(Alameda (Calif.) Times-Star)

This caption is the title of a textbook used in California. It was written by George Earl Freedland, dean of education, State College, San Jose. Evidently, the state curriculum commission read and approved its contents.

Quotations from this book which have been brought to our attention indicate unfitness of the author to produce text matter for the education of the state's youth. We want to believe he is no more than what his book would lead one to believe him to be—a man without the practical experience necessary to fit anyone to write without the bias of misinformation. The quotations lead one to suspect the author of getting his "information" from propaganda which in the last few years has flooded our mails. But regardless of its source it is biased in favor of crackpot ideas of legitimate business and sound social economics.

Taken seriously—and naturally, students are expected to do just that—the youth of the state will enter a business institution as an employee much as Daniel must have entered the lions' den, expecting to be devoured. It's a terrific handicap to be laid on any youth, particularly when the lions are not only toothless but gentle and cooperative—facts he'll quickly discover.

Then, too, what must the student believe of the teaching of such a book? Ask a youngster, who was fed on this sort of stuff, after a short business experience and you'll find out in few and emphatic words.

Benjamin Franklin said: "I believe it is impossible for a man, though he has all the cunning of a devil, to live and die a villain, and yet conceal it so well as to carry the name of an honest fellow to his grave with him, without some one, by some accident or other, shall discover him."

Fair Enough

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—False pride is a terrible thing, and it seems a great pity that our communists should picket and say such unkind things about our anti-American or Nazi Bund when all that stands between them is a mere matter of precedence and vanity.

After all, the Communists and Nazis have everything in common, and Herr Hitler made a great gesture of appeasement last week when he ordered all the citizens of Germany into a state of slavery. The Communists cannot reasonably ask more of a man, but so stiff-necked are they that they refuse to give Hitler credit for his Bolshevism merely because he insists on retaining the leadership of his own Bolshevik country. That is unreasonable. Nobody wants to put a German or an American Bolshevik in command of the Russians, and the Communists go too far when they insist that no Bolshevism is genuine without their official indorsement and Russian management. Hitler's Bolshevism is very high-grade Bolshevism.

What more do the Communists want of Hitler, anyway? How can the man ever please them, short of abdication to a Russian or someone selected by the Russians?

He has abolished private business and capital and expropriated factories and other means of production according to the Russian requirement. True, he did it gradually, but that was where he was smarter than the Russian Bolsheviks. They tried to do it in great, brutal grabs and met resistance from the owners.

But Hitler came along and said, "Boys, let me protect you from these Bolsheviks," and when they trusted him he took them over by degrees. He succeeded by cunning and kidding, where the Russians had made an awful failure of direct action, but the point is that he succeeded. The Russian Bolsheviks aren't fair in refusing to acknowledge his achievements for Bolshevism.

Herr Hitler was so clever that he kept expert, experienced management in charge of industries, whereas the Russians would have killed such talent. The brutality of that would mean nothing to either type of Bolshevism, but the waste of ability and efficiency would have been terrible under the Russians. It would have been a form of sabotage.

Our own Bolsheviks who criticize the anti-American Bund so harshly have to admit when cornered that Hitler has abolished freedom of speech as the press as effectively as the Russians did and under worse difficulties, too, because the Germans were used to a far greater degree of freedom than the Russians. What did the press ever mean to the Russians? How many of them could read?

As far as religion is concerned, there, too, Hitler is coming along fast. He had an obstinate situation which wouldn't be conquered suddenly. The attempt of the Russian-style Bolsheviks to abolish religion was one of the reasons why they failed so badly in Germany. Hitler, however, started with the Jews and has been progressing to the Catholics and other Christian churches by degrees, meanwhile establishing a pagan state religion to interest the young.

The Russian Bolsheviks are too impatient, but they must admit that Hitler had made great progress against religion, and and add his unit of influence to all other units of influence, and let the results work themselves out."—Spencer. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.

Fellow Citizens: There are a number of public utilities in operation in our country, which are regarded as such a necessary function of government, either federal, state or municipal, or a combination of all three, that no one ever thinks seriously of turning them over to private or corporation enterprise.

First in magnitude and importance is our U. S. postal system which operates about 42,000 separate offices scattered from Maine to Manila, and from Pt. Barrow on the north to Porto Rico on the south and employing approximately 245,000 people.

And next, (but which perhaps is really first), are the many miles of city streets—and that vast, network of underground pipes, without which life in cities would be impossible, the sewer systems, and most cities own their own waterworks. Then connected up with our city streets is our constantly expanding system of improved public highways. In addition to the above, I would mention our system of public schools, colleges and universities.

As I said at the beginning, most people regard all these as coming within the proper sphere of government. But there are some people who become greatly wrought up over the fact that someone is in favor of the government (either Federal, State or Municipal) entering the utility field in a bigger way than has hitherto been undertaken. I am not one who believes that all our economic problems would be solved, and troubles ended even if the government should take control of all public utilities. Neither do I think there is much hope for a marked and permanent improvement in our economic conditions until the fierce competition of the present can be gradually supplanted by a greater degree of co-operation. And I think a good place to begin would be the establishment of self-help co-operatives among the unemployed, sponsored by the state. This would be greatly facilitated if the state were in they will just have to reckon with local temperamental peculiarities of peoples if they hope to conquer the world. The German paganism in no way interferes with their Bolshevism under Hitler. It is just a little quirk of their national character.

Our Bolsheviks, if they were honest and good sports, would admire the leaders of the anti-American Bund for their tactics in this country.

The Nazis kiss the flag, indorse the constitution, embrace George Washington and vow that they will save us from Bolshevism—which is nice of them, to be sure—by giving us Nazism.

The Communists also kiss the flag, indorse the constitution and embrace Lincoln, not caring much for Washington. And they are going to save us from Nazism by giving us Communism.

But inasmuch as both are Bolshevism, the Americans are the only ones who stand to lose. From the selfish standpoint the Americans may be thankful that the rivalry does not keep the two types of Bolshevism—Stalin's and Hitler's—apart. With each standing off the other our position in the middle is not as bad as it might be if they combined. But the squabble does not offend truth, and a fair referee would have to blame the Communists for thwarting a happy union for reasons of jealousy only.

Fellow Citizens: In the February 20 issue of The Register, Mr. Neil E. Adams spread a generous coat of whitewash over the virtues as well as the vices of unionism in an attempt to make it appear lily white. It shows very clearly that Mr. Adams is not very thorough about unions and their purpose and activities. I cite a few amazing contradictions in his article.

Paragraph 7: "Our employers are our friends, personally and in business negotiations."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—Real reason Joe Kennedy stayed so long in Palm Beach before going back to the Court of St. James's was not the Florida sunshine, but a row he had with the Roosevelt administration, which, for a time, made him resolve not to go back to London at all.

What Ambassador Kennedy discovered was that Secretary Hull and some of his young men were deliberately sabotaging him. Most flagrant sabotage was performed by Mr. Hull personally, when he told a press conference that the State Department had not OK'd Kennedy's famous speech in which the ambassador expressed general approval of Chamberlain's appeasement policy.

Real fact was that Kennedy had cabled the speech to the State Department in full and Mr. Hull had given his OK in advance. When the speech got a bad press, however, the Secretary of State ducked. He let his ambassador catch all the brickbats by himself.

Hull also didn't like the fact that when the British trade treaty was being negotiated, Joe was anxious to protect the New England shoe industry (the ambassador comes from Boston). On various occasions Hull has dropped curt remarks to his aides about Kennedy, and his aides, taking the cue, have not been deaf, dumb and blind with the press.

Naturally all this leaked back to Kennedy. And before he agreed to go back to London, he made it absolutely plain to the President that no American ambassador could function in any foreign capital while the ground was being cut from under him by his own State Department.

Since Roosevelt, himself, finds Cordell Hull a little trying, and would like to jostle the old gentleman into paying attention to something beside trade treaties, Kennedy got plenty of sympathy. Under Secretary Sumner Welles, another who has to use a lot of patience with Hull, also had a good talk with Kennedy.

Both he and Roosevelt gave him emphatic assurances of support.

Popular Envoy

Joe Kennedy is the most popular ambassador the United States has sent to London in years. His popularity even extends beyond government circles to the man in the street.

Illustrative of Kennedy's influence, he called London on the telephone while in Palm Beach recently, and immediately secured a reversal of the British ban on the use of Newfoundland as a landing base for U. S. planes crossing the Atlantic. Previously the British had refused to cooperate.

Senator Glass' WPA

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia doesn't want it known, but during the recent Senate Appropriations hearings which slashed WPA funds, he remarked testily: "In my opinion, the fact that a man is on WPA is prima facie evidence that he is incompetent." The remark brought an immediate protest from several other committee members, among them Senator Hale of Maine, veteran Republican whose economic views generally coincide with those of Glass.

Half an hour after the transcript of the committee hearings had been released, Senator Glass

"love me, beat me." Paragraph 5: "As much as you try to get away from it, there is still a lot of exploitation of labor going on in this country."

Paragraph 8: "The majority of the unions are in harmony with their employers. It is the discordant union that gets the printer's ink."

The above was picked at random out of Mr. Adams' February 20 article in the Clearing House. Somehow I am reminded of a vicious bull a neighbor once tried to sell my father. He was rated by the seller as a "household pet." My father asked him if he put rings in the noses of all his household pets.

I'd like Mr. Adams to explain in view of his claims of harmony between the employers and the unions, why the Wagner act is necessary.

Now let's refer again to his article in the Clearing House. Paragraph 7 and I quote further: "We earnestly try to give him something for the fair wages he pays us. We protect his interests by employing only competent labor, insuring the fact that the work shall be done with as little waste as possible."

I wonder if Mr. Adams ever heard of a thing called seniority. Would he have us believe that the shiftless, lazy or dishonest workers, who pay the same dues as a highly efficient or honest worker, is going to be satisfied with less service from the union? Is the shiftless worker going to be shoved aside to give the employer the best worker the union has to offer? How long would the lazy worker willingly pay dues if they did?

Mr. Adams in his last paragraph, hints I should not study unionism by "scary headlines." I think I can say I've been on the inside as well as out. I was a member of the M. E. B. A. (Marine Engineers Beneficial Association) number 33 at 26 Park Place, New York, 20 years ago. I am still a licensed engineer.

We paid one dollar a month (not $2.50) in times when prices were high. At least the men in the union were not exploited by the union. But then we did not have a Wagner act at that time. If Mr. Adams wishes I can introduce him to one efficient work-hastily recalled copies and expunged his remark from the record.

Chip Robert's Fees

Real truth about the alleged big lobbying fees paid to Lawrence W. (Chip) Robert for securing PWA funds for a Georgia hospital and other public works, is that a little argument about this took place within the official family a long time ago.

There never was any secret about the fees which Chip Robert received in connection with WPA projects in Georgia. They are all a matter of public record which anyone can read. However, hard-hitting Harold Ickes, who has charge of PWA funds, didn't like the idea of commissions being paid to Robert's engineering and architectural firm. He said it looked bad for the commissions to be paid to the Secretary of the Democratic National Committee.

So Ickes was about to ban the Robert firm from getting any more contracts involving PWA funds in Georgia.

However, none other than the President himself put in his oar. He said that Robert's firm was getting no more than 6 per cent commission, the same amount other engineering firms were receiving. Also he said it was unfair to penalize Chip merely because he was Secretary of the Democratic National Committee.

So the Robert firm has continued to do business with PWA for Georgia projects.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE AUCTION

Continuing my investigation of the citrus industry as an orange grower, shall we check on the auction situation? Auction selling of fruit began a century ago. Citrus fruits along with perishables were sold at auction.

Liverpool, London and Hamburg sold fruit in this manner long before they were thus sold in America. Foreign growers and shippers of Spain and Italy introduced auction sale of fruit in New York because they were convinced of its advantages. The oldest auction in United States is in New York City. It was established in 1823. As fruit and vegetables became standardized, shippers and buyers alike turned to the auction as a means of saving time and money.

There were 12 large terminal auctions located in 10 of our largest cities. New York and Boston each having two terminal auctions. These auction companies are usually locally owned businesses and most of them use terminal buildings owned by the Railroad companies, just as some of our local packing houses do. While we as growers of the California Fruit Growers Exchange use ten of these auctions, we do not have any financial interest in any except the Los Angeles auction. There are three kinds of auctions: F. O. B. telegraphic, wagonload or truck load, and the terminal auctions.

F. O. B. telegraphic was attempted a number of years ago with 90 per cent of the growers agreeing to this method, yet it only lasted two weeks. One can understand why this method is scarcely used any more. With the competition we have, we cannot expect buyers to buy F. O. B. California entirely.

The wagonload and truckload auction is usually held at the shipping point. This method is used quite extensively in some localities for some products but not citrus fruits.

The terminal auctions are the

SERIAL STORY

WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Jeff discovered Susie drinking a malted milk in violation of her training rules. He seizes it, there is a struggle.

CHAPTER XV

SUSIE'S eyes blazed, fire wiping away the guilt. "Give me that malted milk," she commanded through set teeth.

"No."

"You're not my keeper," she flared. "Try minding your own affairs and see how it seems."

Jeff was white with anger. "So this is the way you double-cross the Chief," he accused scornfully. "You let him spend time and money on you—"

"I make money for him and you know it." Her eyes, frantic with desire, clung to the glass of malted milk. Jeff carried it to the fountain and paid the check. When he returned to Susie she was trembling. "Please let me have just a little of it," she begged. "Just a swallow—"

Jeff's anger subsided in a rush of pity. "I can't let you have it, Susie," he said gently, putting his big hand over hers. "Be a soldier, fight it out, can't you?" At the numb shake of her head he asked beseechingly, "Have you done this before?" His hand tightening on hers.

Her mouth worked. "No." Suddenly then she burst into tears. "I'm so h-hungry, Jeff."

Susie's tears frightened Jeff. There was something so despairing about them. Not versed in feminine nature he had no past experience by which to be reassured. To him tears meant disaster. He did not realize that, to girls, a good cry was of no more importance than a good laugh, that it almost always paved the way for an uplift of spirit.

He said, "Don't cry, Susie, there's a good girl." And, frankly, when she only cried harder, "I'll have the man make you another malted milk and we'll call the whole thing off. I didn't know we'd made you suffer so—I didn't realize—"

While he talked Susie got up and started for the door. Jeff followed. The fountain boy snickered and Jeff shot him a reproachful look. Outside, he found that Susie was still weeping and cast about for a means of comfort. "Let's go to Edna," he suggested. "Wouldn't you like to see Edna?"

"Y-yes."

THEY walked to the car and Jeff solicitously helped Susie in. Walking to the other side he slid under the wheel. Then Jeff did a strange thing. Putting an arm around Susie he pulled her head against his shoulder. She buried her face in his coat and sobbed in an abandoned way that only added to his masculine terror.

If he could have but known it Susie was having one of the few really good times she had ever experienced in her barren life. Never had she known the utter joy of weeping upon a sympathetic male shoulder. She no longer wept because of hunger. Her tears went back to the fraternity party, to the years of repression and frustrated longing, they were the outward sign that Susie's soul was breaking through its bonds.

"There, there, honey," Jeff crooned. "There, there, honey." Jeff's mother had talked like that to him when he was a very small boy. "I'll tell that old Swen a few things in the morning. I won't let him starve you, Susie."

Having every intention of willingly going on to the starvation point she mumbled something as if vastly comforted. Susie was beginning to know her way about, instinctively she encouraged Jeff in his role of protector. After a while she sat up, straightened her hat and wiped her eyes. Jeff, still mightily distressed, started the car and hastened to the safest port in any old storm, his mother.

"Edna," he said worriedly when they went in, "Susie's been crying. She can't take it—it's asking too much—"

"I can too take it," Susie quavered.

Edna was all sympathy. Putting an arm around Susie she led her to a chair. "You poor child," she murmured. "What have they been doing to you?"

JEFF let out his breath on a relieved sigh. He sat on one side of Susie, Edna on the other, while they talked it over. Before the conversation ended they were all laughing at Susie's dramatic tale of how she had been persecuted, she even more than the others. With great pride she folded pleats in her dress to display her new waistline and showed her hands, soft and white, the nails growing long and pointed.

"You should see my feet," she went on childishly. "They feel so good and are really beautiful."

"And your skin, Susie," Edna put in enthusiastically. "It's getting so clear and pretty."

"Do you think so?" Susie inquired delightedly. "And have you missed a chin?"

While they were talking the bell rang and John Harker was admitted. It seemed he was taking Jeff's mother to the theater. The way Edna fluttered and the way Mr. Harker looked at her did not go unnoticed by Susie. They talked a little of Susie's program, Mr. Harker appeared to be much pleased with what had been accomplished, nothing was said of her near downfall. They all left the apartment together, Jeff to take Susie to the hotel, Edna and Mr. Harker to be ushered into a long, low car by a liveried chauffeur.

"Come to see me often, Susie," Edna said as they parted.

Susie looked after the car. "Isn't she lovely, Jeff? Mr. Harker thinks so, doesn't he?"

"Yep," said Jeff. "I wish he didn't like her quite so well."

"I used to hate beautiful women," Susie observed plaintively, "but I don't any more."

"Why don't you?" Susie's views never failed to amuse Jeff.

"Because I'm already beautiful inside," she said seriously. It was true. As the pounds dropped away they took sluggishness and the old inferiority with them. She was lighter on her feet, lighter in mind and spirit. With the lessening of her shadow confidence grew.

"JEFF," she faltered as they neared the hotel, "I'm sorry about tonight. I'll never do it again. I promise."

"Aw, that's all right," Jeff replied boyishly. "Guess anybody's got a right to kick over the traces once in a while."

"You were an angel."

"Me an angel—that's good."

By the middle of December Harker's was elated with Susie's progress. The beautifying campaign had continued to hold the interest of the public. Jeff's ideas concerning the radio program and the question and answer column had been tried and found effective. The Susie fans grew by leaps and bounds, her name was a byword. Curiosity was at a high pitch.

Often Susie laughed at her followers, imagining them at their exercises, imagining how often they broke their diet. Their results would be negative, but not hers, oh no, not hers! She glowed with the inner light of achievement. One morning, stooping over to fasten a garter clip to the hem of her stocking, she caught a mirrored glimpse of her leg. She stopped, transfixed. It was a beautiful leg, slim and rounded, tapering down to a slender ankle. In fact the entire line from neck to ankle was breathtakingly lovely.

As yet nothing radical had been done about Susie's face and she gazed at her reflection with dissatisfaction, not unmixed with hope. If they had been able to do so much for her body what might she not hope for her face. Strapping a wide belt around her slim waist she twirled on one toe before the mirror, remembering the smooth little girls on the campus, remembering Dick.

A GIRL CHILD

"I am twelve years old. I want to have a permanent wave set in my hair, only at the ends, of course, and my mother will not let me have it. She says I am too young, and she keeps my hair in two braids, with a curl, a natural one, at the ends. I want a rather long bob with a wave. How old should a girl be before she can have such a permanent?"

I do not know. Age does not have so much to do with such things. Girls are "old enough" when they mature physically and mentally, and that is usually some time after they are twelve. I have known girls of sixteen to be girlish and not suffer by it in the least. They seemed to like themselves and a great many people seemed to like them. A young girl, who is girlish, is lovely no matter what sort of beauty nature gave her. She is lovely in her own right of sparseness and simplicity and sweetness.

When girls take to going to the beauty parlor, cutting their hair in strange ways, experimenting with this kind of wave, sculptured hair, Mimi hair, high roll and low roll, they suffer some sort of change that is not for the better. Painted faces that remind one of nothing so much as the circus clown, dyed nails that remind one of Lady McBeth and her need of a basin of water and soap, tortured eyebrows that put a look of fright and imbecility about eyes usually clear and assured, are not scored on beauty's side. And there certainly add nothing of charm to the already charming girl child. They belong, if they belong anywhere, on the stage.

I enjoy seeing girls of twelve look their best. They are loveliest when their faces are as they were given them, free of paint or powder, eyes shining and skin glowing. They are best dressed when most simply dressed. They are best mannered when most unaffected and girlish. A girl who is a girl in appearance, manners and dress is lovely, but one who puts on the make-up of an older woman, assumes the manners of an adult and poses as a sophisticated person, is about the saddest-looking human being to be met in a day's march.

So I would say to the twelve-year-old girl, and to the sixteen-year-old one, too, keep your girlhood as long as you can. It is yours only for a few years. Then nature takes it from you never to return it again. You will have to take on young womanhood with its obligations and duties, its responsibilities and all that that implies. You will have good times then, too, but they will never be quite as carefree, quite as happy, as these days you spend just being a girl, playing with other girls and boys, making no pretense of being anything or anybody else.

Don't push your life. Enjoy it as it comes along. The older girls you envy would like to have the tireless energy, the health and color, the spontaneity of your girlhood now that it has passed them forever. Just wait. Your turn is coming all too soon, and there will always be long dresses, with trains, always boys and dances and shows. The supply never runs out. But girlhood vanishes never to return. Cherish it as long as you can and leave the permanents to the older folk who need them to make up for the loss of what you have in plenty.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT GULFSTREAM TRACK

Hurt, Jr., of Miami Beach, was to raise the money for operating expenses. Hurt failed to make good and an application to float stock was turned down by the Florida Securities Commission.

Harry I. Fink, Miami Beach hotel owner, withdrew his financial backing.

Hornung's efforts were worthy of something better.

Three months ago a 200-acre strip of black swamp-land stretched away from Florida's main highway to the Atlantic ocean a few miles below Hollywood. In the short space of 90 days that dreary swampland was transformed into Gulfstream Park, through an engineering feat many believed impossible.

But the amateur promoters only wasted their money, efforts, and time to discover what any experienced racing man could have told them in the first place.

That is that racetracks will go to a track where cheap horses run only when there is no other track to attend.

most important. They conduct their operations at the receiving point. The saving of time and the convenience of the buyers is considered. The principal commodities sold are grapes, deciduous and citrus fruit. Of the total receipts of fruit in these cities, 45 per cent was sold at auction. The railroad company in New York assign pier and auction room to each auction company without charge. Fifteen boxes of fruit from each car are displayed as is. The auction company does not permit dressing samples. The cost of unloading, opening, unwrapping, arranging, rewrapping, closing, and reloading boxes is 20c per box. If a carload is sold, the railroad charges the Exchange $2.55 per car for unloading and the railroad company absorbs the sorters' charge. The fruit is cataloged, giving the name of the seller, size and number of packages. The size and number of packages inform what is known as a line and each line is numbered. The fruit is sold by lot number. Each buyer has a catalog. (Your position as higher.

CHOP SUEY "READY" FOR QUICK SERVING

"Perhaps you are one who does not yet know that Chop Suey and Chow Mein can now be bought ready to heat and serve in cans," said Miss Emily Conklin, of The Register Cooking School today.

"You should know too that you can get these Chinese delicacies in a most delicious form, the real Chinese kind. These foods are prepared in one of America's most up-to-date food plants by American men and women according to American standards.

"Chop Suey and Chow Mein will be a treat for your guests and family. Everybody lives these dishes, and you'll enjoy the freedom from fuss and bother that go with most party menus.

"If you prefer you can make your own Chop Suey in your kitchen in just ten minutes time. To make Sub Kum Chop Suey or Chow Mein you need a can of LaChoy Mixed Vegetables. This can contains succulent bamboo shoots, bean sprouts, water chestnuts, mushrooms and sweet peppers. They come sliced and proportioned correctly. Simply add a little fresh or left-over meat, and some celery and onion according to the recipe on the can. You'll need LaChoy Sauce to make the dish complete."

County Opposes Tax Fund Change

Vigorous protest against proposed changes in the method of collecting and distributing state gasoline tax funds was registered by the Orange county supervisors late yesterday in a resolution directed against senate bill 999 and assembly bill 2058, now before the state legislature.

The board's resolution was patterned after a similar expression by the Placer county supervisors, opposing the legislative proposal to tinker with the present gas tax set-up, which distributes half a cent of the three-cent tax to cities, and a cent to the counties, the latter also sharing in motor vehicle license fees.

Flood Damage Suits Recessed

Trial of the damage suits filed against the county flood control district by Mr. and Mrs. Jerome D. Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hartelt, of West Anaheim, was at recess today over the legal holiday, Hartelt being on the witness stand as court adjourned late yesterday.

Started last week, the long-drawn legal battle is expected to run another fortnight. The Wallaces ask $22,680 and the Hartelts $12,050, for the flooding of their orange groves when the West Anaheim storm basin broke under the storm of last March 3.

A third damage claim made its appearance in court yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. John C. McNeill, of West Anaheim, sued for $8145 damages to their grove from the same source.

Police News

Edward Collins, Monterey Park, and H. A. Graber, Orange, both charged with driving through stop signals, were fined $5 each yesterday by City Judge J. G. Mitchell, while Carl J. Olson, transient, was sent to county jail for 10 days on a vagrancy charge.

On a warrant issued by Justice Cal D. Lester, Orange, Harry Street, 27, of 709 1/2 West Eighth Street, was arrested last night by Officers Henry Prichard and Clyde Flower when he gave himself up at police headquarters on a charge of failure to support his family.

In line with a policy to keep hobo "jungles" from becoming long-time homes of transients here, Santa Ana officers arrested four men yesterday afternoon on vagrancy charges and booked them at county jail. They are Arthur Lord, 34, laborer of Soldier, Iowa; Eugene Meyer, 41, miner of Silver Peak, Nev.; Henry Hilt, 64, laborer of unknown address, and Clarence Foster, 23, butcher of Bell, Calif. Officers F. L. Grouard and Herman Stahl made the arrests.

Charged with speeding, Harold J. Frank, 1416 North Olive, Santa Ana, was arrested by Officers F. L. Gouard and Herman Stahl yesterday afternoon here on a bench warrant issued by Judge Frank Tausch of Anaheim.

Santa Ana police yesterday were asked to be on the lookout for a red wire wheel, tire and tube, valued at $15, and stolen from a Ford V-8 while it was parked at Fifth and Bush streets February 9. The theft was reported by Mrs. B. M. Maxey, South Laguna Beach.

A would-be car thief jimmied the ignition of an automobile parked in front of 1120 North Olive last night about 9:30 o'clock yesterday, according to Mrs. Francis Eshom, of that address, but failed to drive away with the car. A young boy of the house heard someone tampering with the car but was alone, feared to investigate and there was no telephone over which he might have called police.

NEW DISAGREEMENT IN DAMAGE ACTION

The $71,000 damage suit brought by heirs of the late Clyde Simpson, 45, victim of a traffic crash involving an Anaheim high school bus near Cypress more than a year ago, again caused a jury disagreement in Superior Judge G. K. Scovel's court last night.

The jury at the second trial of the case against the high school district received the case at 2:15 p. m. and struggled vainly until 10:15 p. m. without breaking its deadlock. Judge Scovel then discharged the group. The first trial of the case had similarly resulted in a hung jury.

Whether there will be a third trial has not yet been made known.

Mrs. Fannie Simpson, widow of the deceased, sued for $26,000, each of her three children asking $15,000. They are Francis, 14, June, 10, and Gale, 7.

Aviator Flies Low To Tell His Friends "Hello"

After several witnesses asserted, saw Louis Betschart, Route 3, Santa Ana, flying his plane at a low altitude over Valencia and Edgewood streets yesterday, and shouting to someone on the ground, Betschart was contacted and warned about the danger created for himself and others by such flying.

Betschart, according to police, explained that he had friends living in the neighborhood and merely wanted to give them a "hello." Betschart, who has several hundred hours of flying experience and who has his own plane, promised to avoid low flying in the future over the city.

Dixon "Accused" Of Observing 70th Birthday At Fete

Charges that Charles E. Dixon, adjutant of Calumet camp, "did, on February 21st, wilfully and with malice aforethought take, have, and kept a 70th birthday anniversary" were preferred by Senior Vice Commander John H. Hinckley at the regular meeting of the United Spanish War Veterans last night at the K. of C. hall.

Dixon pleaded guilty to the charge and a rising vote of congratulations was made by the body.

Committee Named

In the more serious part of the meeting Albert P. Dresser was elected to fill the unexpired term as camp trustee left vacant by the resignation of James A. Randel.

Commander Jacob B. Wine appointed the following committee to attend a Red Cross meeting at Santa Ana city council chambers on Friday evening: C. F. Wood, A. D. Isobel and himself.

The following members of the organization were reported to be ill at their homes: Forrest Gay, James E. Duskey, and Sid Kimball, all of Santa Ana and James E. Doudican, Laguna Beach.

Frank Frowiss, Costa Mesa, is at Sawtelle hospital.

PLAN FAIR EXHIBIT

Orange county will be represented again with an exhibit at the Los Angeles county fair in Pomona this year, it was decided when the county supervisors late yesterday authorized V. D. Johnson, of Orange, county publicity director, to proceed with the project. Johnson estimated the cost at $250 for materials, and $100 to Charles I. Farber, of Hollywood, who will design the exhibit.

During 1930, a total of 2,298, 341 passengers were either carried for pleasure or for hire. During 1937, the total was 1,580,412 passengers.

jimmie fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, February 22.—That be-whiskered adage, "All that glitters is not gold," is particularly true in Hollywood and the case of Sigrid Gurie is a perfect illustration. What seemed to be the great "Break" turned out to be anything but a break for her, and her career, instead of being advanced, has actually been set back as a result.

Every young actress in Hollywood envied her when she was signed by Sam Goldwyn for Sam makes "bigger and better" pictures. Under his guardianship, she wouldn't have to go through the ordeal of playing a long apprenticeship in "Class B" productions. And what happened? First of all, she spent a year twiddling her thumbs, waiting for her first picture, "Marco Polo," to start. It was a good picture, but Gary Cooper, in the title role, dominated the show and Sigrid was just an exotic background. Then, because Goldwyn makes only three or four pictures a year, she settled down to another long, fruitless period of waiting. And when she finally was loaned for "Allegiers," she met the worst luck of all. The picture was a smash hit, and her performance was a stand-out, but she was overshadowed by the strange, passion-flower beauty of Hedy Lamarr, the only actress on the screen who could have taken attention completely away from Sigrid.

Goldwyn, having nothing for her to do, then dropped her from his contract list and Sigrid has been in the doldrums ever since. She would have been better off had she spent the two years playing in good horse operas!

IDOL CHATTER: Virginia Bruce has come a long way from Fargo, North Dakota, but still reads the home town paper every day. When Sam Goldwyn finally gets around to making a really big picture, some way is sure to be cracked about the goose that laid the Goldwyn egg. Hope Errol Flynn never attempts residence in a totalitarian state—he's much too outspoken. Alice Faye's golden hair, seen against the background of a black fur collar, always reminds me of a costly jewel in its velvet case. Hollywood, futilities: those "No Admittance!" signs on sound stage doors.

When I'm talking with Bette Davis, I always marvel at her beauty; away from her, I always wonder why I marvelled. Studies in contrast: Fred Astaire, who could double for a hermit—and Jack Oakie, who can't stand to be alone. The upper and lower halves of Wendy Barrie's tennis costume were separated by a broad band of skin—her own. There's something iron about Charlie Chaplin satirizing dictators in far away Europe—when you consider the off-with-these-head-tactics of our own studio bosses. Strike me pink if Bob Burns hasn't taken up astronomy.

Wonder how Garbo reads Stokowski's billet-doux—and so would you wonder if you'd ever glimpsed his scrawl. Look alike: Ida Lupino and Virginia Bruce. No Scotchman was ever more saving of shillings than Roland Young is of words—he parts with each one as though it were a priceless pearl. Chuckle of the week: the club emblem suggested by David Niven for his Hollywood skiing gang—a ham on a pair of runners. Edgar Bergen is one actor who's made money grow on trees.

After spending nearly ten years sponsoring — and financing — a world-wide peace movement, Francis Lederer saw all of his dreams collapse last fall when the European nations indicated their readiness for war. His peace organization was disbanded and the disillusioned enthusiast wandered about for the next few months like a lost soul, or to be more exact, like a crusader without a cause. When I met him the other day, he noted the old sparkle and zip. He has a plan now for the solution of the unemployment problem and it's nearly ready for submission to the powers-that-be. You can't keep a man like that down for long.

Here's a suggestion for all wives. Having reconciled, Mr. and Mrs. John Carradine will now build a new home and one of its principal features is to be a detached wing designed by Mrs. C. It will be equipped to house the apparatus incidental to John's four hobbies — photography, sculpturing, woodwork and piano. "When he comes home grouchy," she declares, "I'll just lock him in that wing—and let Nature take its course."

I like Bert Lahr's story about the actor who was injured in an auto crash and rushed, semi-conscious, to the hospital, where X-rays were first on the program. "Where am I going, doc?" moaned the shattered victim as they wheeled him down the corridor to the X-ray room. "We're going to make some pictures," answered the medico, soothingly. The dying actor brightened a bit. "Please, pal," he gasped. "See that I get a good script!"

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANN MEREDITH

Cottage Cheese Cake is about the hardest thing I know of to make successfully; in fact, you are money ahead if you buy one. But a custard type of pie made with cottage cheese is another story. You will find this recipe very accurate.

Cottage Cheese Pie
2 cups creamy cottage cheese, blended with fork until smooth,
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated rind for pie top
1 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons dissolved cornstarch cooked with
1 cup thin cream, then cooled
Pinch of salt
3 eggs, whites beaten stiff
Pie tin lined with rice pastry.

—A Tested Recipe.
Make the thin cornstarch base first and let it cool while you are struggling with the lumps in cottage cheese. When all is smooth, add sugar, lemon juice, salt and egg yolks. Beat hard until smooth and creamy, combine with the cooked cornstarch cream and fold the stiffly beaten egg whites through the mixture. Spoon into the pie shell, sprinkle grated peel over filling and bake in this manner:

Bake 15 minutes in oven preheated to 450 degrees. Reduce heat to 300 degrees and bake 25 minutes longer. Cool pie on a rack to prevent soaking of bottom crust. If the crust is brushed with sizzling hot butter just before the filling goes in, soaking is less evident.

Fashion news reports that waist lines must be definitely smaller if you intend to wear Spring styles successfully. Get in shape by using one of our diets. The sheet, with 3 diets, is free. Write for it, enclosing stamped, return-addressed envelope, please.

NEIGHBORHOOD DISHES

Peach Pudding
Enough fresh sliced peaches to fill a deep pudding dish.
2 cups of water to cook peaches
Drain peach juice and add to it 1 pint milk
4 well beaten eggs
1 cup sugar and
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 cup flour sifted with
1/2 teaspoon baking powder and
1/2 teaspoon salt.

—Contributed.
The peach juice must cool before combining with milk. Mix in order listed, pour thin batter over peaches in dish and bake in a medium hot oven, about 30 minutes. Serve with plain cream.

There is no reason why canned peaches cannot be used in this recipe. The No. 2 1/2 size can will do, if slightly more than one cup of juice is used.

Hamburger Stew With Dumplings
1 1/2 pounds ground round steak
1 large onion, ground
1 can tomato hot sauce
Dash of garlic salt
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
1 can mixed salad vegetables
Bacon fat for frying
1 pint water.

—contributed.
Add ground onion, and seasonings to hamburger, and work into a pliable mass with tomato sauce. Form into small balls, roll in flour and fry brown in plenty of bacon fat. Transfer to wide stew kettle with the can of vegetable salad and its liquid, and a pint of boiling water. Simmer for an hour, then cook with dumplings, made this way.

Sift 2 cups flour with 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Whip 1 egg, fill cup with milk and mix with flour. The dough must be stiff enough to hold up spoon. Dip spoon in hot broth, then in dough, cutting off small pieces. Place over stew, leave uncovered until the dumplings are like puff balls, then cover and cook at a simmer for 15 minutes longer. Dumplings must never be cooked with liquid, at a hard boil, but always at simmering heat to prevent breaking down into liquid.
